Negro Vigilante Group Tied to New Violence

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — A 26-year-old Negro described by authorities as a member of the militant Deacons of Defense and Justice was held in jail today on charges he fired shots at a carload of white men.

Joe Gatlin, a Bogalusa resident, was booked for attempted murder. There were no injuries.

State troopers arrested Gatlin and three Negro companions, who were jailed on peace disturbance charges, after the incident at a truck stop eight miles south of Bogalusa.

The shooting came at the end of an otherwise quiet Sunday in this troubled town. Civil rights groups had announced it would be "a day of rest" and held no marches or demonstrations.

However, Negroes planned another mid-afternoon march today on City Hall and equal job opportunity pickets were to resume their parading outside Bogalusa stores.

A civil rights lawyer said he would go before U.S. Dist. Judge Herbert W. Christenberry in New Orleans today and seek contempt proceedings against Bogalusa authorities.

The attorney, Al Bronstein, said the arrest of pickets last Friday at a Bogalus shopping center violated Judge Christenberry's injunction calling on officials to provide adequate protection for demonstrations and banning police from arresting civil rights workers exercising their constitutional rights.

The Deacons of Defense and Justice is a Negro vigilante group.

Police said Gatlin was a member of the group. Officers said they confiscated two pistols from Gatlin's car when he and his companions were arrested.

The Ku Klux Klan held a rally Saturday night in Mississippi, just across the Pearl River from Bogalusa.

L. C. McDaniel of Natchez, Miss., grand dragon of the United Klans of America, said in his speech:

"I have never advocated violence but where such trash as the Deacons for Defense are on the scene, I don't think protecting our rights could be termed violence."

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. calls the Negro organization a strategic mistake which may endanger the movement.

"I know our opponents in the South would like us to turn to violence," said King, the civil rights movement's leading advocate of passive resistance. "They know violence and they know how to deal with it."

"Martin Luther King and me have never seen eye to eye," said Charles Sims, 41, the stocky, grizzled, head of the Bogalusa Deacons.

"He has never been to Bogalusa. If we didn't have the Deacons here there is no telling how many killings there would have been."

Sims says that his armed forces do not move out to protect civil rights demonstrators.

"We stand guard here in the Negro quarter," he said. "We are the defensive team. We will never go on the offense. But if the Klan or anybody else comes in here to hit us, I guarantee they will get hit back."

The Deacons were formed last December in Jonesboro, another sensitive civil rights point in Louisiana and home of the state's Ku Klux Klan grand dragon.

Reports are that the Deacons now have 50 chapters in five other states — Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, North Carolina and South Carolina. This is unconfirmed. Deacons are reluctant to be specific. Leaders say pinpointing other chapters would only subject them to unnecessary trouble.

Ernest Thomas, Jonesboro, regional vice president of the Deacons, said chapters are being formed in areas beset by a strong Klan movement and weak, or hostile, law enforcement agencies.

Negro Teacher Aid Is Sought

Many Displaced By Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell today endorsed President Johnson's proposed national teachers corps, but said it should have some provision for Negro teachers displaced by desegregation.

The President asked Congress Saturday to pass legislation creating such a corps to serve in slums and areas of rural poverty. Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., who introduced the bill in the House Wednesday, predicted passage.

"I don't think we will have any earthly problems," Perkins said. "We are going to pass it." He said he saw little prospect the measure might be crowded off the legislative agenda before Congress adjourns.

Powell, New York Democrat who heads the House Education and Labor Committee, said attention to the problem of a teacher shortage has been long overdue. He called the corps idea "a creative effort."

"However, at the same time, I am hopeful that the Congress in considering this legislation will devote specific attention to an equally serious developing problem: that of the displaced Negro teacher who is being discharged as Southern school districts desegregate," he said in a statement.

The President urged passage of the measure in letters to the presiding officers of the House and Senate.

Johnson also asked support for bills which would provide a program of fellowships to prepare students for teaching careers and help experienced teachers improve their qualifications, and for aid to colleges and universities to provide better education for teachers.

Los Alamos Atom Lab Gets 20,000 Visitors

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — Spokesmen estimate 20,000 persons during the weekend toured the laboratory where the first atomic bomb was made.

The occasion was the first open house at Los Alamos scientific laboratory in five years. Some areas of the secret facility were opened to the public for the first time.

The open house was timed to coincide with the 20th anniversary of the first detonation July 16, 1945, of an atomic bomb in southern New Mexico near Alamogordo.

$13,000 Robbery Is Probed

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—The wife of a department store maintenance man robbed Saturday of $13,000 says she remembers seeing two of the three holdup men standing outside the store a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Mildred Pennington, 50, a clerk at the M. O'Neil Co. Department Store, said Sunday night she was parked in front of the store late Saturday when the robbers drove away in a getaway car. She was waiting for her husband, unaware he was inside handcuffed.

Her husband, Leonard, 48, a store employe for 13 years, was inside waiting for a police escort to take him to the bank with the day's receipts when he was robbed.

Police said the holdup men apparently hid in the basement of the store when it closed, then overpowered Pennington five minutes before his escort arrived.

Pennington told investigators one man held a gun at his forehead while another dragged him to a railing near the front door and handcuffed him there.

Mrs. Pennington said she saw three men flee in a 1963 bronze car found abandoned later five miles north of Massillon. Police say it was stolen Saturday morning in the Ravenna area.

Science Starts Its Study of Mars Photos

Hunt for Evidence Of Life on Planet Now Under Way

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory settled down today to an exhaustive study of Mariner 4's photographs of Mars, coming in at a rate of one every 10 hours, in a search for some hint of life.

Laboratory director William H. Pickering believes some sort of life exists on Mars and the agency for which he works, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has plans for spending hundreds of millions of dollars to find it.

No evidence of life showed up in the first three photographs' release last week. They outlined a desert-like area similar to the broad planes on earth's lifeless moon.

Before any more are released, all of the possible 21 photographs taken as Mariner 4 flew past Mars Wednesday are going to be carefully analyzed.

Transmitted across 134 million miles of space, they contain many "glitches," an engineering term for electronic errors and static. They also show several markings scientists doubt actually exist on Mars. A likelier explanation, they say, would be some fault in the camera and radio system.

For instance, all three show a dark spot in the same area of the frame, almost as if the lens were smudged. Frame No. 1 has cloud- like wisps above the surface, but these are much higher than the thin Martian atmosphere extends.

Drunken GIs Fail in Try To Raid Hanoi

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two drunken U.S. Marine infantrymen tried to raid Hanoi, but they couldn't get the jet bombers started, a military spokesman said today.

The Leathernecks sneaked onto the flight line at the Da Nang Air Base Friday night and climbed into a B57 light bomber. One of the men, sitting in the navigator's seat, became angry when his companion couldn't start the plane and climbed out to get into his own aircraft.

Air police spotted the two as they sat trying to start he engines. The two were turned over to Marine authorities. The pair escaped Sunday morning but were picked up during the afternoon.

Military sources said the Marines had caused some damage to the bombers while fumbling with the switches and controls. However, both planes were repaired and flown on strike missions against the Viet Cong Saturday.

Even if the two men had been able to start the planes, they had virtually no chance of being able to take off and carry out the raid, the sources added.

A U.S. Marine spokesman said he did not have a report on the incident and was unable to give the names of the two Marines involved.

9,000 Girl Scouts Holding Roundup

FARRAGUT, Idaho (AP) — Only three things seemed uncontrollable as the 1965 Girl Scout Senior Roundup entered its fifth day today: the wind, the sun and the enthusiasm of 9,000 teen-age girls.

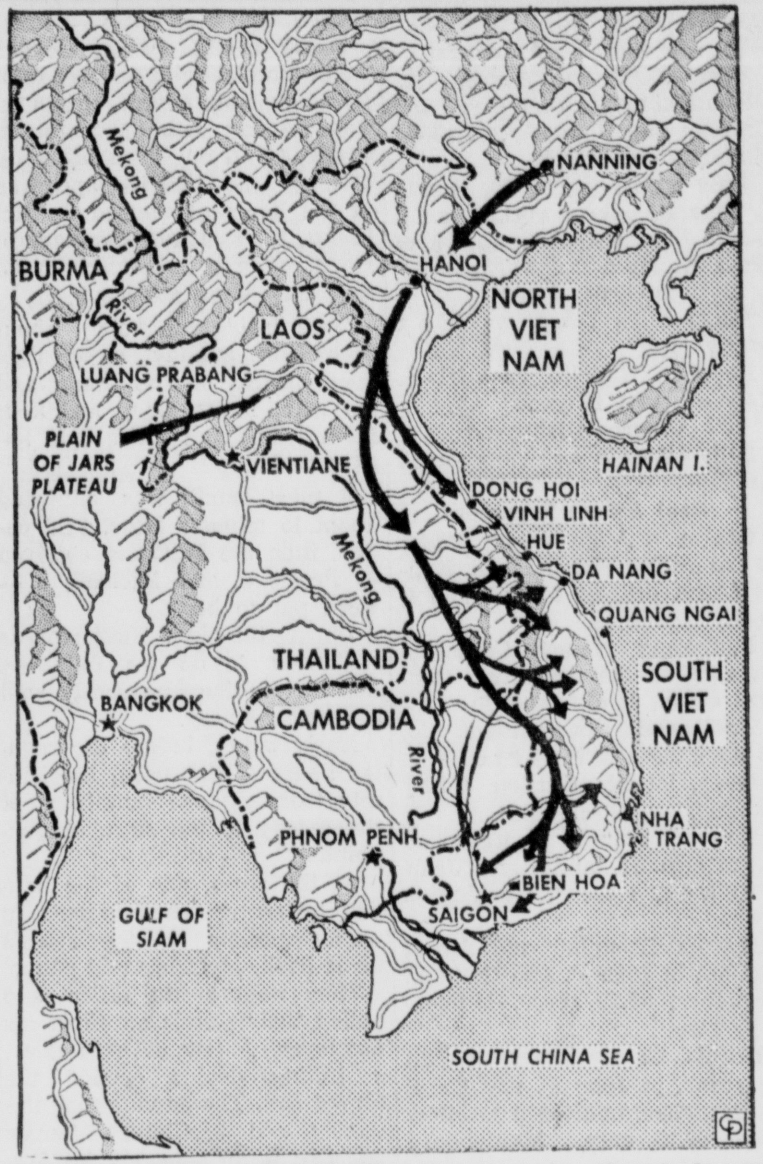
About 200 military policemen and Idaho State Police tightened already tight security around the 5,000-acre camp over the weekend, when 11,398 tourists poured in, 7,297 of them Sunday.

But directors of the roundup reported all was running smoothly.

The scouts spend most of their mornings hiking in the nearby Bitterroot Mountains or taking bus tours through the Kaniksu National Forest.

Prisoner List Drops

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The public works committee of Chatham County says it is considering hiring day labors because the supply of county prison inmates is at a record low.



SUPPLY LINE — Tentacle-like arrows trace what is known as the Ho Chi Minh Trail, North Viet Nam's supply line into South Viet Nam via Laos. One of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's considerations on his Saigon trip is the possibility of expanding action into Laos to turn off this lethal faucet.

Syngman Rhee, 90, Dies Far from Korean Home

HONOLULU (AP) — Syngman Rhee, a fierce, old Korean patriot whose greatest dream and last wish eluded him, died at Maunalani Hospital in Honolulu today of a stroke.

He was 90, in failing health for at least three years.

The former South Korean president's last wish was "to go home and die," but increasing debility prevented his return.

SYNGMAN RHEE

The founder of the Korean Republic was admitted to Queen's Hospital a month ago today after he began bleeding internally. His condition improved and he was sent back to the nursing home.

Doctors said they had an hour's indication that death was near, giving them time to summon his Austrian - born wife, Francesca, 65, and his adopted son, Rhee In-soo.

Unfulfilled was his life's ambition and dream—unification of Korea as a republic. The mountainous peninsula on Asia's east coast still is divided along the truce line where the bloody Korean War was halted in 1953.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced but they will be held at Korean Christian Church of Honolulu, center of worship for much of Honolulu's small Korean community.

Wilbert Choy, who heads a committee of Korean community officials handling the services, said Rhee will be buried in Seoul, Korea.

On June 21 Rhee was removed from Korean President Chung Hee Park's political purge list. However, Rhee had been invited back to his homeland before but declining health prevented it.

The former "Tiger of Korea" was tamed by age. Once a driving chief executive who defied communism and the United Nations, he became a homesick and tired old man.

A nurse said Rhee was kept alive by a dwindling hope of going home to die.

This hope seemed to be the only strength he had left. His health, his stamina and the power he once wielded faded when student riots toppled him from the presidency.

Rhee was the Korean republic's first president and served in the job 12 years. He had just been re-elected to a fourth term when his government was overthrown. Charges of ballot box stuffing, strongarm influence and trickery were hurled at the white-haired president.

He fled the country after protests erupted into violence.

Sky Object 'Positively' Navy Balloon

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Air Force said today a "mysterious" sky object seen by thousands in Ohio and states east last week was one of two missing Navy balloons released in Canada.

"We have positively identified the object as a balloon," said an official at "Project Bluebook," the Air Force's investigative agency for unidentified flying objects.

"We can't identify which balloon until we recover the package," said Sgt. David Moody.

He said four balloons were released July 5 by the U.S. Navy at Churchill, Man., on Hudson Bay. Two of the balloons, used for cosmic ray research, are missing, Moody said.

He said the balloons, 200 to 300 feet tall, are valued at about $100,000, including their special scientific cargo.

Moody said the balloons normally fly at about 125,000 feet.

The sky object was reported seen by thousands of people in Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland last Monday night. Some said it glowed. Others said it beamed a spotlight on the ground.

Moody said similar sightings over the Azores and Portugal have been traced to another research balloon released over India.

Liner Seven Seas Radios for Help

NEW YORK (AP) — A Coast Guard cutter headed today for the liner Seven Seas, stranded in the North Atlantic with 400 passengers and 210 crewmen aboard.

The cutter Absecon should reach the 12,500-ton liner about 4 p.m. (EDT) today, the Coast Guard said. The Absecon is due to stand by the Seven Seas until a tug reached the ship to tow it into St. Johns, Nfld.

The Seven Seas was disabled Sunday night by an engine room fire. There were no injuries

The Seven Seas is chartered by the University of the Seven Seas of Whittier, Calif., for cruises during the fall and winter.

Romania Asks Troop Pullout

First Division Tastes Battle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)— Troops of the newly arrived U.S. 1st Division were attacked by the Viet Cong for the first time during the night and three Americans were killed, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said several more Americans were wounded in the attack that began with a mortar barrage against forward elements of the division's 2nd Brigade outside the Bien Hoa air base 12 miles northeast of Saigon.

The 1st Division troops had arrived in Viet Nam last week. It was the first action in Viet Nam for the "Big Red One" division that made an enviable record in Africa and Europe during World War II.

"I had been through Korea and I thought I was a combat veteran until last night," said Maj. B. McJilton of Fort Worth, Tey. "I had never seen fighting like that before."

Another veteran, Sgt. 1.C. Raymond N. Simmons of Jackson, Tenn., compared the Viet Cong attack to action around the Hurtgen Forest, in Germany, in 1945.

U.S. planes pushed the war deeper into North Viet Nam today, bombing a 10-mile stretch of railroad track starting 15 miles north of Yen Bay and 90 miles northwest of Hanoi, a U.S. spokesman announced.

It was the deepest penetration of North Vietnamese territory announced so far. Results of the raid were not reported.

A U.S. Navy jet bomber was shot down over North Viet Nam Sunday a short time after U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara watched it roar off along with 13 others from the catapults of the 7th Fleet carrier Independence, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said the two crew members of the A6 Intruder were seen to parachute and land on the ground. He said a search operation for them was abandoned today and it was presumed they were captured.

North Viet Nam claimed its gunners shot down three U.S. planes Sunday and captured two pilots. It said one plane was downed over Haiphong, North Viet Nam's chief port 60 miles east of Hanoi.

France Says U.S. Spies on Its A-Plant

PARIS (AP) — The Defense Ministry charged today that a U.S. photo reconnaissance plane flew near the French nuclear complex at Pierrelatte and was on a mission to take "unauthorized pictures."

The nuclear plant there is working on France's first hydrogen bomb.

A statement from the ministry said a protest had been presented at the U.S. Embassy in Paris.

The statement said cameras aboard the plane, an RF101, had taken 175 pictures of the complex Friday.

According to the Defense Ministry, the U.S. plane, which was based at Ramstein, Germany, made four runs over the atomic installation in southeastern France.

The Defense Ministry accused the plane of three violations: flying in a restricted zone, taking photographs without authorization and taking pictures in a restricted zone.

Skateboard Vibration Sets Off Store Alarm

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Police raced to a clothing store Sunday when the burglar alarm sounded, as it had done several times in recent weeks. As before, everything was serene, even to the youngsters skateboarding by.

Then police found the vibrations of the skateboards on the sidewalk set off the sensitive alarm.

Man at Lunch Sees His Car Crash Cafe

LEONARD, Tex. (AP)—Fannin County Commissioner John Kent looked up from lunch Sunday to see his car crash through the front of a cafe in this north central Texas town.

A tractor-trailer truck, later colliding with another car on the street, whipped into the cafe's parking lot and shoved Kent's unoccupied car inside the building. Seven persons were injured but none hospitalized.

Cincy Negro Youth Slain

Prominent Bar Manager Held

CINCINNATI (AP) — The manager of a well-known Cincinnati bar shot two Negro youths, killing one, early today at a drive-in restaurant, the Hamilton County sheriff's office charged.

The sheriff's office filed second - degree murder charges against 42-year-old John (Pete) Coyne. Coyne, who is white, manages Marian's Cafe.

The shooting occurred at a Frisch's restaurant in suburban Hartwell, just north of the Cincinnati city limits.

Ozie Lee, 20, of suburban Glendale was shot dead as he sat at the wheel of his car in the restaurant parking lot. Three .45 caliber bullets crashed through a car window and into his chest.

Lee's stepbrother, 15-year-old Roy Edmonds, was hit twice, in a shoulder and the back. He underwent surgery.

A third youth jumped from the front seat of the car and fled. He was identified as Lee Holiday Jr.

A witness, 15-year-old Harry Howard, told investigators that Coyne walked into the parking lot and fired at Lee's car soon after his wife had orally harassed several Negroes at the drive-in.

Howard quoted Diane Coyne, 24, as saying, "get out of here, you niggers."

A Cincinnati policeman, Kenneth Chitwood, arrested Coyne and his wife minutes after the shooting. He said they were walking about five blocks from the restaurant and that Coyne had a gun tucked under his belt. The gun was empty.

Chitwood said Coyne told him, "I just shot two niggers. They were messing around with my wife."

Community Memorial Rites Honor Stevenson

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Leaders of the nation and hometown friends heard Adlai E. Stevenson lauded today as a "combination of greatness and goodness" and "the voice of peace and reason for all the peoples of the world."

A community memorial service brought thousands to the Horton Fieldhouse of Illinois State University and about 200 to the funeral in the Unitarian church.

President and Mrs. Johnson, Vice President and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey and Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren headed the list of national figures joining the family and close friends in the small, modern styled church.

The Johnsons and their daughter, Luci, flew here from Washington for the funeral.

Dr. Dana McLean Greeley of Boston, president of Unitarian Universalist Association, told the mourners at the church that Stevenson was a universal citizen.

"Statesmen and the common people alike, the world around, have taken him to their hearts, and will mold his memory into their own image of the best life and prophecy of America in the 20th century," Dr. Greeley said.

Police blocked off streets along the route from the church to 112-year-old Evergreen Memorial Cemetery.

The grave was prepared there in a corner of the family plot. The tranquil glade is marked by a tall, square-cut monument that bears the name of four members of the family, topped by that of Adlai Ewing Stevenson, vice president of the United States in the second administration of President Grover Cleveland.

He was the grandfather of Adlai E. Stevenson, who governed Illinois, ran losing races for the presidency on the Democratic ticket in 1952 and 1956 and served as ambassador to the United Nations until a heart attack killed him Wednesday in London.

Thousands of persons filed past Stevenson's flag - draped casket in the church Sunday at the rate of 700 or more an hour.

All Powers Given Appeal

34 Red Parties Attend Parley

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) —The Communist regime called today for all nations to withdraw their armed forces from foreign territories. The appeal seemed aimed at all major powers, including the Soviet Union.

It was voiced by Communist party chief Nicolae Ceausescu in a major policy address opening the congress of the Romanian party.

Unlike other Communist leaders have done, Ceausescu did not offer any material assistance to the Viet Cong guerrillas.

He said his party seeks "good relations with all countries, regardless of their political structure."

Thirty-four Communist parties of all shades of opinion are represented at the five-day meeting, which opened today. This reflects Romania's avowed neutrality in the Soviet - Chinese squabble.

Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev headed the Russian delegation. The Chinese delegatoin was led by Teng Hsiao-ping, secretary general of the Chinese party and considered by many to be No. 5 in the Peking hierarchy.

Other top Communist leaders on hand include East Germany's Walter Ulbricht, Bulgarian Premier Todor Zhivkov and Yugoslavia's Edward Kardelj, widely regarded as President Tito's heir apparent.

Some Western diplomats believed the meeting might bring an attempt by the new Soviet leadership to patch up the quarrel with Peking. There also was speculation over the possibility of a new open clash between the two camps.

Rusk Tipped For UN Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was high level speculation in Congress today that President Johnson may name Secretary of State Dean Rusk as head of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations.

Johnson, who flew to Bloomington, Ill., for the funeral of Adlai E. Stevenson, has postponed any announcement on his choice of Stevenson's successor.

According to some associates, Rusk would be receptive to becoming chief of the U.N. delegation.

The sources who reported this said that if such an appointment were made, they believe Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara might be named secretary of state.

The Leathernecks sneaked onto the flight line at the Da Nang Air Base Friday night and climbed into a B57 light bomber. One of the men, sitting in the navigator's seat, became angry when his companion couldn't start the plane and climbed out to get into his own aircraft.

Air police spotted the two as they sat trying to start he engines. The two were turned over to Marine authorities. The pair escaped Sunday morning but were picked up during the afternoon.

Military sources said the Marines had caused some damage to the bombers while fumbling with the switches and controls. However, both planes were repaired and flown on strike missions against the Viet Cong Saturday.

Even if the two men had been able to start the planes, they had virtually no chance of being able to take off and carry out the raid, the sources added.

A U.S. Marine spokesman said he did not have a report on the incident and was unable to give the names of the two Marines involved.

9,000 Girl Scouts Holding Roundup

FARRAGUT, Idaho (AP) — Only three things seemed uncontrollable as the 1965 Girl Scout Senior Roundup entered its fifth day today: the wind, the sun and the enthusiasm of 9,000 teen-age girls.

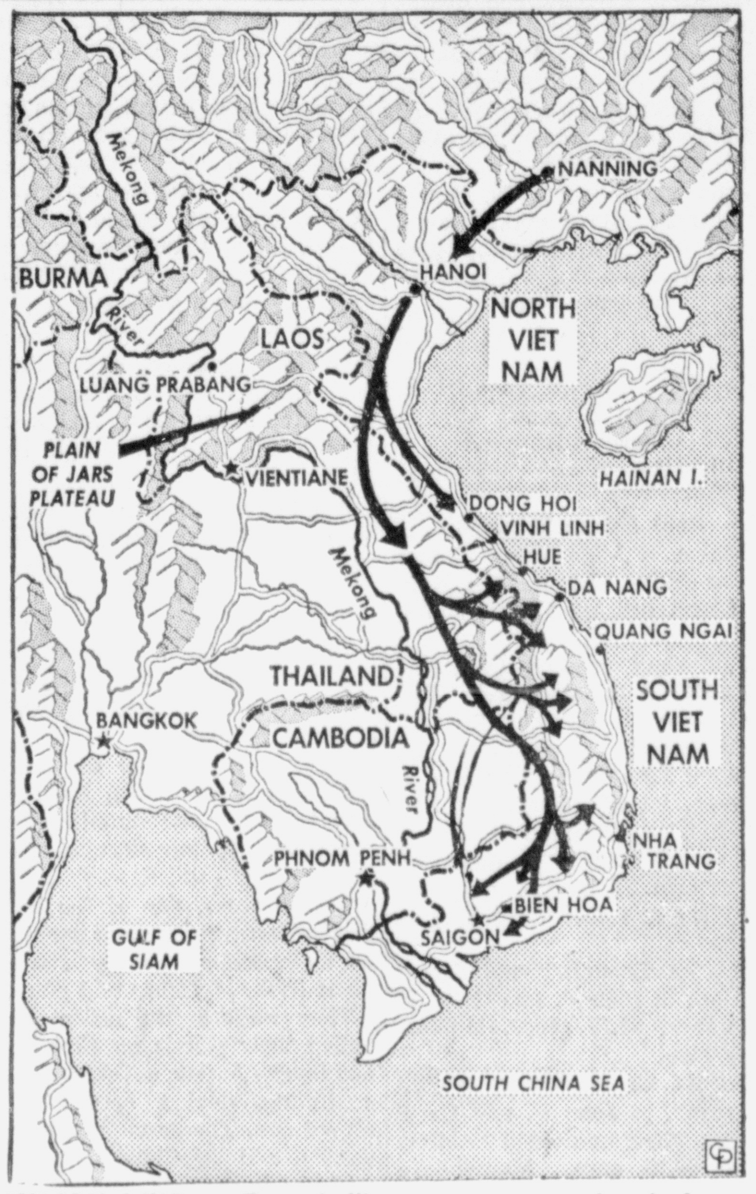
About 200 military policemen and Idaho State Police tightened already tight security around the 5,000-acre camp over the weekend, when 11,398 tourists poured in, 7,297 of them Sunday.

But directors of the roundup reported all was running smoothly.

The scouts spend most of their mornings hiking in the nearby Bitterroot Mountains or taking bus tours through the Kaniksu National Forest.

Prisoner List Drops

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The public works committee of Chatham County says it is considering hiring day labors because the supply of county prison inmates is at a record low.



SUPPLY LINE — Tentacle-like arrows trace what is known as the Ho Chi Minh Trail, North Viet Nam's supply line into South Viet Nam via Laos. One of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's considerations on his Saigon trip is the possibility of expanding action into Laos to turn off this lethal faucet.

Syngman Rhee, 90, Dies Far from Korean Home

HONOLULU (AP) — Syngman Rhee, a fierce, old Korean patriot whose greatest dream and last wish eluded him, died at Maunalani Hospital in Honolulu today of a stroke.

He was 90, in failing health for at least three years.

SYNGMAN RHEE

The former South Korean president's last wish was "to go home and die," but increasing debility prevented his return.

The founder of the Korean Republic was admitted to Queen's Hospital a month ago today after he began bleeding internally. His condition improved and he was sent back to the nursing home.

Doctors said they had an hour's indication that death was near, giving them time to summon his Austrian - born wife, Francesca, 65, and his adopted son, Rhee In-soo.

Unfulfilled was his life's ambition and dream—unification of Korea as a republic. The mountainous peninsula on Asia's east coast still is divided along the truce line where the bloody Korean War was halted in 1953.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced but they will be held at Korean Christian Church of Honolulu, center of worship for much of Honolulu's small Korean community.

Wilbert Choy, who heads a committee of Korean community officials handling the services, said Rhee will be buried in Seoul, Korea.

On June 21 Rhee was removed from Korean President Chung Hee Park's political purge list. However, Rhee had been invited back to his homeland before but declining health prevented it.

The former "Tiger of Korea" was tamed by age. Once a driving chief executive who defied communism and the United Nations, he became a homesick and tired old man.

A nurse said Rhee was kept alive by a dwindling hope of going home to die.

This hope seemed to be the only strength he had left. His health, his stamina and the power he once wielded faded when student riots toppled him from the presidency.

Rhee was the Korean republic's first president and served in the job 12 years. He had just been re-elected to a fourth term when his government was overthrown. Charges of ballot box stuffing, strongarm influence and trickery were hurled at the white-haired president.

He fled the country after protests erupted into violence.

Sky Object 'Positively' Navy Balloon

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Air Force said today a "mysterious" sky object seen by thousands in Ohio and states east last week was one of two missing Navy balloons released in Canada.

"We have positively identified the object as a balloon," said an official at "Project Bluebook," the Air Force's investigative agency for unidentified flying objects.

"We can't identify which balloon until we recover the package," said Sgt. David Moody.

He said four balloons were released July 5 by the U.S. Navy at Churchill, Man., on Hudson Bay. Two of the balloons, used for cosmic ray research, are missing, Moody said.

He said the balloons, 200 to 300 feet tall, are valued at about $100,000, including their special scientific cargo.

Moody said the balloons normally fly at about 125,000 feet.

The sky object was reported seen by thousands of people in Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland last Monday night. Some said it glowed. Others said it beamed a spotlight on the ground.

Moody said similar sightings over the Azores and Portugal have been traced to another research balloon released over India.

Liner Seven Seas Radios for Help

NEW YORK (AP) — A Coast Guard cutter headed today for the liner Seven Seas, stranded in the North Atlantic with 400 passengers and 210 crewmen aboard.

The cutter Absecon should reach the 12,500-ton liner about 4 p.m. (EDT) today, the Coast Guard said. The Absecon is due to stand by the Seven Seas until a tug reached the ship to tow it into St. Johns, Nfld.

The Seven Seas was disabled Sunday night by an engine room fire. There were no injuries

The Seven Seas is chartered by the University of the Seven Seas of Whittier, Calif., for cruises during the fall and winter.

First Division Tastes Battle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)— Troops of the newly arrived U.S. 1st Division were attacked by the Viet Cong for the first time during the night and three Americans were killed, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said several more Americans were wounded in the attack that began with a mortar barrage against forward elements of the division's 2nd Brigade outside the Bien Hoa air base 12 miles northeast of Saigon.

The 1st Division troops had arrived in Viet Nam last week. It was the first action in Viet Nam for the "Big Red One" division that made an enviable record in Africa and Europe during World War II.

"I had been through Korea and I thought I was a combat veteran until last night," said Maj. B. McJilton of Fort Worth, Tey. "I had never seen fighting like that before."

Another veteran, Sgt. 1.C. Raymond N. Simmons of Jackson, Tenn., compared the Viet Cong attack to action around the Hurtgen Forest, in Germany, in 1945.

U.S. planes pushed the war deeper into North Viet Nam today, bombing a 10-mile stretch of railroad track starting 15 miles north of Yen Bay and 90 miles northwest of Hanoi, a U.S. spokesman announced.

It was the deepest penetration of North Vietnamese territory announced so far. Results of the raid were not reported.

A U.S. Navy jet bomber was shot down over North Viet Nam Sunday a short time after U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara watched it roar off along with 13 others from the catapults of the 7th Fleet carrier Independence, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said the two crew members of the A6 Intruder were seen to parachute and land on the ground. He said a search operation for them was abandoned today and it was presumed they were captured.

North Viet Nam claimed its gunners shot down three U.S. planes Sunday and captured two pilots. It said one plane was downed over Haiphong, North Viet Nam's chief port 60 miles east of Hanoi.

France Says U.S. Spies on Its A-Plant

PARIS (AP) — The Defense Ministry charged today that a U.S. photo reconnaissance plane flew near the French nuclear complex at Pierrelatte and was on a mission to take "unauthorized pictures."

The nuclear plant there is working on France's first hydrogen bomb.

A statement from the ministry said a protest had been presented at the U.S. Embassy in Paris.

The statement said cameras aboard the plane, an RF101, had taken 175 pictures of the complex Friday.

According to the Defense Ministry, the U.S. plane, which was based at Ramstein, Germany, made four runs over the atomic installation in southeastern France.

The Defense Ministry accused the plane of three violations: flying in a restricted zone, taking photographs without authorization and taking pictures in a restricted zone.

Skateboard Vibration Sets Off Store Alarm

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Police raced to a clothing store Sunday when the burglar alarm sounded, as it had done several times in recent weeks. As before, everything was serene, even to the youngsters skateboarding by.

Then police found the vibrations of the skateboards on the sidewalk set off the sensitive alarm.

LEONARD, Tex. (AP)—Fannin County Commissioner John Kent looked up from lunch Sunday to see his car crash through the front of a cafe in this north central Texas town.

A tractor-trailer truck, later colliding with another car on the street, whipped into the cafe's parking lot and shoved Kent's unoccupied car inside the building. Seven persons were injured but none hospitalized.

Cincy Negro Youth Slain

Prominent Bar Manager Held

CINCINNATI (AP) — The manager of a well-known Cincinnati bar shot two Negro youths, killing one, early today at a drive-in restaurant, the Hamilton County sheriff's office charged.

The sheriff's office filed second - degree murder charges against 42-year-old John (Pete) Coyne. Coyne, who is white, manages Marian's Cafe.

The shooting occurred at a Frisch's restaurant in suburban Hartwell, just north of the Cincinnati city limits.

Ozie Lee, 20, of suburban Glendale was shot dead as he sat at the wheel of his car in the restaurant parking lot. Three .45 caliber bullets crashed through a car window and into his chest.

Lee's stepbrother, 15-year-old Roy Edmonds, was hit twice, in a shoulder and the back. He underwent surgery.

A third youth jumped from the front seat of the car and fled. He was identified as Lee Holiday Jr.

A witness, 15-year-old Harry Howard, told investigators that Coyne walked into the parking lot and fired at Lee's car soon after his wife had orally harassed several Negroes at the drive-in.

Howard quoted Diane Coyne, 24, as saying, "get out of here, you niggers."

A Cincinnati policeman, Kenneth Chitwood, arrested Coyne and his wife minutes after the shooting. He said they were walking about five blocks from the restaurant and that Coyne had a gun tucked under his belt. The gun was empty.

Chitwood said Coyne told him, "I just shot two niggers. They were messing around with my wife."

Rusk Tipped For UN Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was high level speculation in Congress today that President Johnson may name Secretary of State Dean Rusk as head of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations.

Johnson, who flew to Bloomington, Ill., for the funeral of Adlai E. Stevenson, has postponed any announcement on his choice of Stevenson's successor.

According to some associates, Rusk would be receptive to becoming chief of the U.N. delegation.

The sources who reported this said that if such an appointment were made, they believe Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara might be named secretary of state.

Community Memorial Rites Honor Stevenson

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Leaders of the nation and hometown friends heard Adlai E. Stevenson lauded today as a "combination of greatness and goodness" and "the voice of peace and reason for all the peoples of the world."

A community memorial service brought thousands to the Horton Fieldhouse of Illinois State University and about 200 to the funeral in the Unitarian church.

President and Mrs. Johnson, Vice President and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey and Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren headed the list of national figures joining the family and close friends in the small, modern styled church.

The Johnsons and their daughter, Luci, flew here from Washington for the funeral.

Dr. Dana McLean Greeley of Boston, president of Unitarian Universalist Association, told the mourners at the church that Stevenson was a universal citizen.

"Statesmen and the common people alike, the world around, have taken him to their hearts, and will mold his memory into their own image of the best life and prophecy of America in the 20th century," Dr. Greeley said.

Police blocked off streets along the route from the church to 112-year-old Evergreen Memorial Cemetery.

The grave was prepared there in a corner of the family plot. The tranquil glade is marked by a tall, square-cut monument that bears the name of four members of the family, topped by that of Adlai Ewing Stevenson, vice president of the United States in the second administration of President Grover Cleveland.

He was the grandfather of Adlai E. Stevenson, who governed Illinois, ran losing races for the presidency on the Democratic ticket in 1952 and 1956 and served as ambassador to the United Nations until a heart attack killed him Wednesday in London.

Thousands of persons filed past Stevenson's flag - draped casket in the church Sunday at the rate of 700 or more an hour.

Dems Study Victory Costs

Organizational Weakness Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are finding that President Johnson's 1964 landslide victory is bearing some bitter fruit in the breakdown of party organization in some key areas of the nation.

The voting riches won last year apparently have tended to set many local Democrats squabbling among themselves with the result that the kind of organization which wins state and congrsesional elections has deteriorated in some sections.

Johnson has given this matter his attention and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey currently is assigned to the task of trying to bring bickering local leaders together into some kind of united front before next year's elections.

Humphrey and his associates don't have to look below the surface to know that there are deep-seated party organization troubles in California, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and New York.

What is especially bad news to the Democrats is that all of these states, except Illinois, are electing governors next year. There is general belief among administration strategists that the Republicans will give campaign priority to trying to win governorships as the quickest route to a national comeback.

Their reasoning is that while the Republicans may make some gains in the House only an unforseen political upheaval could give the GOP control. They look for the Senate to remain safely Democratic for several years, at least.

Seats of 15 of the 17 Republican governors will be at stake in the 1966 election, including those in New York, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. New York is a question mark and the GOP may face difficulties in hanging on in Massachusetts, Oklahoma and Rhode Island. But otherwise the party position is regarded as relatively solid.

Bandits Use Hostages in $40,000 Heist

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Three swarthy bandits held a department store official and his family at gunpoint overnight and escaped today with approximately $40,000 from the store safe. Two of the bandits appeared at the home of Conrad O. McClung, 31, assistant manager of Hutzlers department store, and said they were attorneys.

Once inside the home, about 9 o'clock Sunday night they drew pistols on McClung and his wife, Mary Lou, and kept them trained on the couple until morning.

A third bandit was admitted about 15 minutes later, said police, then the McClung children — Peter, 4, and Michael, 8 — were put to bed.

During the night McClung was told what to do the following morning in the apparently well planned robbery.

Early today, before the regular hours of the store, the bandits took all four members of the family to the store at gunpoint.

At the store, one of the bandits brazenly signed himself in as an auditor on the store's night book, McClung told police.

They went to the office and pulled their pistols on about six employes. A few minutes later, a timing device opened the strong box. The bandits took the money and McClung's family and fled in an auto, leaving McClung behind.

He called police. Police threw up roadblocks. A few minutes later, Mrs. McClung telephoned the store to say she was safe. Police found the getaway car at a parking lot.

Mrs. McClung and the children were put out before the men picked up a second car at a parking lot several blocks away.

Police said the three men apparently escaped before the roadblocks were set up between the store and the place where the getaway car was found.

New Russian Space Probe Is Mystery

MOSCOW (AP)—The new unmanned Soviet space traveler was reported functioning perfectly today in its flight to orbit around the sun. Its ultimate destination was still a mystery.

U.S. experts tended to rule out Mars as a target, saying that planet is no longer in a favorable position for another probe from earth.

By 4 a.m., EDT, the official Tass news agency reported, the space craft was 140,430 miles from earth. Tass said further radio communications with the satellite "will be carried out in accordance with the program."

The Soviet space authority announced the spacecraft, named "Automatic Station Zond 3," was launched Sunday on an orbit around the sun. The first announcement said the spacecraft and its scientific gear were "functioning normally" and "preliminary data shows that the trajectory of the automatic station is close to the expected one."

The purpose of the flight, the announcement said, "is to check the station's systems in conditions of prolonged space flight and holding scientific studies in interplanetary space."

A solar orbit is required for probes of other planets. Such a route was taken by Mariner 4, which now is transmitting pictures of Mars back to earth.

The Russians have tried at least twice without success to probe the red planet. One attempt was made by Zond 2, launched Nov. 30, the day before America's successful Mariner 4. Zond 2 stopped transmitting after several months of flight.

Minuteman's Death Laid To Drowning

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—University Hospital said today a Coumbus hairdresser whose death in Lake Erie has been cloaked in some mystery died by drowning.

"Nothing else was found," said Dr. Emmerich Von Haam, who performed an autopsy on the body of Michael J. Lucas, 27.

Lucas disappeared last Wednesday after diving from a small motorboat and saying he was going for a swim. His body was found Saturday.

Authorities found $2,000 in cash, two guns and documents of the Minutemen organization in Lucas' camper-truck parked at Put-In-Bay near Port Clinton.

Ottawa County Coroner C. R. Wood ruled Lucas, reportedly a strong swimmer, drowned. But an autopsy was requested by Lucas' wife and parents.

Police at Put-in-Bay said a .22 caliber rifle and 41-magnum pistol were found in Lucas' truck, but, they said, his wife told them several other guns were missing and should have been in the truck.

Minutemen, a national organization, train privately in small arms and guerilla tactics. The organization says it fears a Communist takeover in the United States.

Ohio Continues Road Slaughter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 24 persons died in 18 accidents on Ohio's streets and highways over the weekend — and 12 of the accidents involved only one car.

The unusually excessive number of one-car mishaps came as the weekend toll soared above 20 for the third straight weekend, including the long Fourth of July holiday period when 36 deaths were recorded. Twenty fatalities were recorded last weekend.

In addition to the traffic fatalities, at least two persons—aged 13 and 16—drowned, and four persons died in miscellaneous accidents.

2 Girls Due To Divide $4000 Find

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. (AP) — Midnight was bad news for Cinderella, because her riches disappeared, but midnight tonight is good news for two Lynn, Mass., girls, who'll split $4,000.

The girls, Thelma Sutton and Leonora Subrizio, both 16, found the currency bundle of 100s, 50s and 20s on the floor of the Surf Theater in Swampscott last July 19, while watching a matinee. The money was tied up with a string.

The cash was turned over to police. Today Chief Francis P. Wall said he'll return it to the girls Tuesday.

The girls said they'll use the money to finance their education.

The American Theater Corp., the theater owner, put in a claim for the money. But town counsel said the girls have the only right to the money outside that of the person who lost or left it on the floor.

2 Children Mother Slain

Mutilated Bodies Found in Lorain

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — The bodies of a young mother and her two children were found mutilated in a West Side home today.

A police official said it was impossible to determine if they had been shot, cut or beaten to death.

The victims were identified by Police Inspector Maurice M. Mumford as Mrs. Loren Alexander, about 26 or 27, and her two sons, Timmy, 4, and a 3-or-4-month-old infant.

The mother was found under a couch, the older boy under a pile of clothing and the infant in a suitcase.

Mumford said the bodies were "mutilated."

Police sought the father, reportedly seen Sunday morning.

The bodies were found by Otto Miller III, a Cleveland attorney who went to the home to collect rent reportedly overdue.

Miller told police he found the mother under the couch on the first floor after forcing open a back door.

The boys were found in separate upstairs bedrooms by police.

Neighbors told police they last saw Mrs. Alexander four days ago and reported the children had not been seen for more than a week.

Mumford said Alexander was released last Jan. 27 from the Marion Correctional Institution, where he was serving time for grand larceny.

Alexander, employed as a laborer at a Lorain firm that makes traffic lights, was on vacation last week but scheduled to report today for work.

The rocket came within less than two minutes of being launched when the shot was called off due to further problems.

Dems Study Victory Costs

Organizational Weakness Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are finding that President Johnson's 1964 landslide victory is bearing some bitter fruit in the breakdown of party organization in some key areas of the nation.

The voting riches won last year apparently have tended to set many local Democrats squabbling among themselves with the result that the kind of organization which wins state and congrsesional elections has deteriorated in some sections.

Johnson has given this matter his attention and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey currently is assigned to the task of trying to bring bickering local leaders together into some kind of united front before next year's elections.

Humphrey and his associates don't have to look below the surface to know that there are deep-seated party organization troubles in California, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and New York.

What is especially bad news to the Democrats is that all of these states, except Illinois, are electing governors next year. There is general belief among administration strategists that the Republicans will give campaign priority to trying to win governorships as the quickest route to a national comeback.

Their reasoning is that while the Republicans may make some gains in the House only an unforseen political upheaval could give the GOP control. They look for the Senate to remain safely Democratic for several years, at least.

Seats of 15 of the 17 Republican governors will be at stake in the 1966 election, including those in New York, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. New York is a question mark and the GOP may face difficulties in hanging on in Massachusetts, Oklahoma and Rhode Island. But otherwise the party position is regarded as relatively solid.

Bandits Use Hostages in $40,000 Heist

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Three swarthy bandits held a department store official and his family at gunpoint overnight and escaped today with approximately $40,000 from the store safe. Two of the bandits appeared at the home of Conrad O. McClung, 31, assistant manager of Hutzlers department store, and said they were attorneys.

Once inside the home, about 9 o'clock Sunday night they drew pistols on McClung and his wife, Mary Lou, and kept them trained on the couple until morning.

A third bandit was admitted about 15 minutes later, said police, then the McClung children — Peter, 4, and Michael, 8 — were put to bed.

During the night McClung was told what to do the following morning in the apparently well planned robbery.

Early today, before the regular hours of the store, the bandits took all four members of the family to the store at gunpoint.

At the store, one of the bandits brazenly signed himself in as an auditor on the store's night book, McClung told police.

They went to the office and pulled their pistols on about six employes. A few minutes later, a timing device opened the strong box. The bandits took the money and McClung's family and fled in an auto, leaving McClung behind.

He called police. Police threw up roadblocks. A few minutes later, Mrs. McClung telephoned the store to say she was safe. Police found the getaway car at a parking lot.

Mrs. McClung and the children were put out before the men picked up a second car at a parking lot several blocks away.

Police said the three men apparently escaped before the roadblocks were set up between the store and the place where the getaway car was found.

New Russian Space Probe Is Mystery

MOSCOW (AP)—The new unmanned Soviet space traveler was reported functioning perfectly today in its flight to orbit around the sun. Its ultimate destination was still a mystery.

U.S. experts tended to rule out Mars as a target, saying that planet is no longer in a favorable position for another probe from earth.

By 4 a.m., EDT, the official Tass news agency reported, the space craft was 140,430 miles from earth. Tass said further radio communications with the satellite "will be carried out in accordance with the program."

The Soviet space authority announced the spacecraft, named "Automatic Station Zond 3," was launched Sunday on an orbit around the sun. The first announcement said the spacecraft and its scientific gear were "functioning normally" and "preliminary data shows that the trajectory of the automatic station is close to the expected one."

The purpose of the flight, the announcement said, "is to check the station's systems in conditions of prolonged space flight and holding [illegible] scientific studies in interplanetary space."

A solar orbit is required for probes of other planets. Such a route was taken by Mariner 4, which now is transmitting pictures of Mars back to earth.

The Russians have tried at least twice without success to probe the red planet. One attempt was made by Zond 2, launched Nov. 30, the day before America's successful Mariner 4. Zond 2 stopped transmitting after several months of flight.

Minuteman's Death Laid To Drowning

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—University Hospital said today a Coumbus hairdresser whose death in Lake Erie has been cloaked in some mystery died by drowning.

"Nothing else was found," said Dr. Emmerich Von Haam, who performed an autopsy on the body of Michael J. Lucas, 27.

Lucas disappeared last Wednesday after diving from a small motorboat and saying he was going for a swim. His body was found Saturday.

Authorities found $2,000 in cash, two guns and documents of the Minutemen organization in Lucas' camper-truck parked at Put-In-Bay near Port Clinton.

Ottawa County Coroner C. R. Wood ruled Lucas, reportedly a strong swimmer, drowned. But an autopsy was requested by Lucas' wife and parents.

Police at Put-in-Bay said a .22 caliber rifle and 41-magnum pistol were found in Lucas' truck, but, they said, his wife told them several other guns were missing and should have been in the truck.

Minutemen, a national organization, train privately in small arms and guerilla tactics. Th organization says it fears a Communist takeover in the United States.

Ohio Continues Road Slaughter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 24 persons died in 18 accidents on Ohio's streets and highways over the weekend — and 12 of the accidents involved only one car.

The unusually excessive number of one-car mishaps came as the weekend toll soared above 20 for the third straight weekend, including the long Fourth of July holiday period when 36 deaths were recorded. Twenty fatalities were recorded last weekend.

In addition to the traffic fatalities, at least two persons—aged 13 and 16—drowned, and four persons died in miscellaneous accidents.

2 Girls Due To Divide $4000 Find

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. (AP) — Midnight was bad news for Cinderella, because her riches disappeared, but midnight tonight is good news for two Lynn, Mass., girls, who'll split $4,000.

The girls, Thelma Sutton and Leonora Subrizio, both 16, found the currency bundle of 100s, 50s and 20s on the floor of the Surf Theater in Swampscott last July 19, while watching a matinee. The money was tied up with a string.

The cash was turned over to police. Today Chief Francis P. Wall said he'll return it to the girls Tuesday.

The girls said they'll use the money to finance their education.

The American Theater Corp., the theater owner, put in a claim for the money. But town counsel said the girls have the only right to the money outside that of the person who lost or left it on the floor.

2 Children Mother Slain

Mutilated Bodies Found in Lorain

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — The bodies of a young mother and her two children were found mutilated in a West Side home today.

A police official said it was impossible to determine if they had been shot, cut or beaten to death.

The victims were identified by Police Inspector Maurice M. Mumford as Mrs. Loren Alexander, about 26 or 27, and her two sons, Timmy, 4, and a 3-or-4-month-old infant.

The mother was found under a couch, the older boy under a pile of clothing and the infant in a suitcase.

Mumford said the bodies were "mutilated."

Police sought the father, reportedly seen Sunday morning.

The bodies were found by Otto Miller III, a Cleveland attorney who went to the home to collect rent reportedly overdue.

Miller told police he found the mother under the couch on the first floor after forcing open a back door.

The boys were found in separate upstairs bedrooms by police.

Neighbors told police they last saw Mrs. Alexander four days ago and reported the children had not been seen for more than a week.

Mumford said Alexander was released last Jan. 27 from the Marion Correctional Institution, where he was serving time for grand larceny.

Alexander, employed as a laborer at a Lorain firm that makes traffic lights, was on vacation last week but scheduled to report today for work.

Various Memorials Found In Tuscarawas, Harrison

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is one of a series of summer tours featuring state memorials maintained by the Ohio Historical Society prepared for readers of The Herald by the Columbus Automobile Club.

In two counties of eastern Ohio, Tuscarawas and Harrison, are memorials of wide variety and great interest. Most of those in this trip are in Tuscarawas.

Southeast of New Philadelphia is Schoenbrunn Villeage, reconstructed Moravian Indian settlement originally established in 1772. The Moravians suffered attacks from hostile Indians and whites after the outbreak of the Revolutionary War, and the settlement was abandoned in 1777. The reconstruction includes the church, the schoolhouse and a dozen other structures.

Just south of Schoenbrunn is Gnadenhutten Monument, on the site of a massacre of Moravian Indians in 1782.

Also recommended is a visit to the village of Zoar, established in 1817 by 300 Separatists from the Kingdom of Wurttemberg, in Germany. They came to this country to escape persecution for their religious beliefs and were helped by Quaker friends to purchase a 5500-acre tract on the Tuscarawas River.

The settlement dissolved in 1898, but the "No. 1 House" of the leader is maintained with authentic exhibits of the life and crafts of the original occupants.

Other visits recommended:

Custer Monument at New Rumley, marking the birthplace of General Custer, famous Civil War cavalry leader and Indian fighter.

Quaker Meeting House at Mount Pleasant, first yearly meeting house west of the Alleghenies, built in 1814.

Also in the area are several lakes which offer added attractions with their varied facilities. One of special interest this year is Atwood Lake, where expanded facilities were opened recently. This 1,540 - acre lake in Carroll and Tuscarawas Counties offers boating, fishing, swimming, with overnight and vacation cabins and picnic grounds.

Tappan Lake, west of Cadiz, includes 2,350 acres and it also provides facilities for most water sports, as well as cabins and campsites.

The Columbus Auto Club suggests the use of Route 22 to Cambridge, Route 21 to Newcomerstown and Route 36 to the tour area.

Legislative Windup Sought This Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 106th Ohio General Assembly begins what leaders hope will be its last week today with numerous major proposals still due for action.

The main key to adjournment is the House-approved school foundation bill which the Senate Education Committee chairman says will have to undergo considerable change.

The chairman, Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-Lawrrnce, has called for resumption of hearings tonight on the measure to earmark $625 million for education in the 1965-67 biennium.

Collins said he is contemplating changes that would provide for better equalization in the distribution of funds to "rich" and "poor" school districts. He said another $15 million—$20 million would have to be added to the measure "to make any satisfactory adjustments at all."

The legislators also face the likelihood of an eleventh-hour effort to get approval of a new legislative apportionment plan.

Other major matters still unresolved include a Senate-passed bill to allow sale of liquor on Sunday, the so-called fair housing bill, implementation of the voter-approved $290 million capital improvements bill, a measure to ban sales of milk and dairy products below cost, a conference committee to resolve differences in House and Senate versions of a bill to tighten the state's coal strip mining laws, and a Senate-approved measure to extend public school bus transportation to private and parochial school pupils.

Sen. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-Mahoning, called on Gov. James A. Rhodes over the weekend to use his office to boost passage of the school bus measure.

In a telegram, Gilmartin noted that the measure, now bogged down in a House subcommittee, had the support of the governor when it was considered in the Senate.

"We hope you were sincere," Gilmartin said.

The Senate was expected to reject today or Tuesday House amendments to the strip mining law revisions.

Sen. Edmund A. Sargus, D-Belmont, objected to amendments which struck from the measures provisions for the state to deny licenses for mining on nonreclaimable land and doubling the bond on land judged difficult to relclaim.

Greenfield Approved As Ball Bearing Plant

GREENFIELD, Ohio (AP)—The Hoover Ball Bearing Co. of Ann Arbor, Mich., has announced plans to construct a $600,000 plant in Greenfield's industrial park.

Construction is expected to be completed by Feb. 1, 1966, with 60 persons hired initially.

8 Million Tourists Visit Georgia in Year

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Georgia's tourist business attracted more than eight million travelers last year and they spent more than $544 million in the state, the Bureau of Research at the University of Georgia reported.

State Department's Flap House' Keeps Finger on Pulse of World

WASHINGTON (AP) — At 3:30 one morning, the telephone rang at the bedside of Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The man who called was the watch officer in charge of the night shift at the State Department's operation center. He informed Rusk about a military revolt against Gen. Nguyen Khanh, then South Viet Nam's military commander.

The watch officer, who has to make the delicate decision whether to wake up Rusk, is the head of a five-man team which mans the center on the 7th floor of the State Department. Three such teams operate around the clock, and one member of each is from the Pentagon, either a colonel or a lieutenant colonel.

"Speed is our bible," said Lewis Hoffacker, director of the "Flap House," as the center is sometimes called. Others like to speak about the State Department's "Rumpus Room."

After the Bay of Pigs disaster President John F. Kennedy ordered this new instrument set up for use at a time of crisis — and there have been an untold number of crises since then, in Viet Nam, in the Cong, in Berlin and, more recently, in the Dominican Republic.

Hoffacker himself is every thing but secretive. The 32-year-old career diplomat established his fame as a consul in Elisabethville in the Congo in 1961, when he risked his life saving two U.N. observers attacked by secessionists.

The center, Hoffacker explains, serves a twofold purpose:

Firstly, it keeps watch on emerging or potential crises.

Second, when a crisis develops, it assembles everyone in the administration working on the crisis situation, forming what is generally termed a "task force." The center shelters the group as long as the crisis lasts, feeds it with every bit of information on the situation, and protects its members from distractions.

The center is not a policy-making organ, but provides a well-oiled mechanism to help the policy makers particularly in situations when speed is of utmost importance.

Normally only important messages come to the center, but in a crisis, when a task force is quartered in the center, all messages related to the crisis are channelled to the force.

A "flash" message from an overseas post is simultaneously transmitted to the situation room of the White House, the military command center of the Pentagon, and the Central Intelligence Agency. Vice versa, whenever the Defense Department or the intelligence community receives an urgent message from its sources, that is automatically relayed to the operation center.

In addition to machines virtually flooding the center with decoded messages from abroad other machines provide Hoffacker and his staff with news reports.

All this material is used by the center to write a top-secret summary which is on Rusk' desk early every morning. Every shift includes an editor, an official responsible for this summary.

There are three extra telephones on Hoffacker's desk: a white one, connecting him with the White House, a yellow one to the CIA, and a blue one to the Pentagon. In addition to these direct lines there are several "secure phones" in the center which "scramble" conversations, making eaves dropping impossible.

In case of a real crisis which is expected to last longer than a few hours or days, everyone who has to deal with it moves to the center, bringing with him all the background material needed — and probably does not leave it before the crisis is over. These men form the task force.

The advantages are obvious, Hoffacker explains. All experts, selected usually from a number of offices, including agencies outside the State Department, are concentrated in one place, meaning:

—That they get the latest messages immediately and simultaneously;

—That they are together and can exchange views without having first to locate one another;

—That they are in a "secure" place, divorced from their regular duties, where nobody can bother them and where they can let their documents be strewn around on the desks, and

—Where they can concentrate on the main problem, without being disturbed by incoming telephone calls or visitors.

New 'Miss Ohio' To Shelve Spanish-Speaking Career

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Valerie Jan Lavin of Canton planned to decide this fall whether she was going to become a Spanish teacher or learn to be an interpreter. But a little crown made a big change in those plans.

For now, Valerie will be representing Ohio in the Miss America Contest instead of preparing for another quarter at Ohio State University.

Should she win at Atlantic City—as Jackie Mayer of Sandusky did to become Miss America of 1963—school will be out for at least a year.

The black haired, 19-year-old of Spanish descent and a Spanish major in college, took the Miss Ohio title even though she didn't win any category in the preliminary rounds. She apparently impressed the judges with a rounded performance, which included displaying grace in an evening gown, beauty in a swim suit, song and dance talent and poise and insight in analyzing a painting.

Second place also went to an Ohio State student, 20-year-old Sharon Phillian of Delaware, a singer competing as Miss Central Ohio.

Valerie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Val Lavin, said she "felt numb" when the judges decision was announced. But her thoughts turned quickly to Atlantic City and she said she probably would leave for the Miss America Contest on Sept. 3, her birthday.

She probably also will include quite a bit of pink in her wardrobe. She wore a pink swim suit and dresses during most of the Miss Ohio judging. Was this her lucky color?

"It seems to be," she said. "But I also saved a wishbone from last year's awards luncheon."

That was a reference to the 1964 contest in which she competed as Miss OSU but failed to make the top 10. She was entered this year as Miss Canton. She credited a change of her talent presentation to singing instead of the monologue she gave last year for helping her to victory.

She won a $1,000 college scholarship among other prizes.

Nancy Borden of Roachdale, Inc., Miss Miami University, won a $250 scholarship for the best talent among contestants not in the top five. Kristi Lee Milligan of Ripley, Miss Brown County, was voted Miss Congeniality by her fellow contestants.

Hancock County Area Quarantines All Dogs

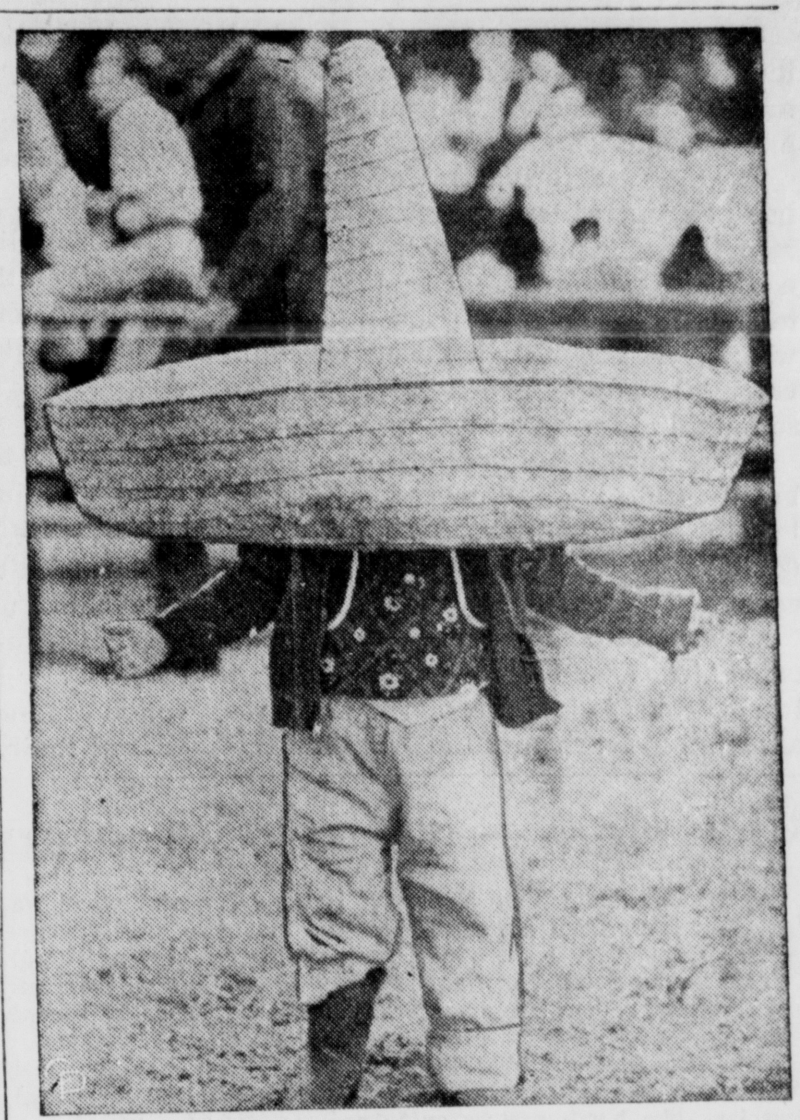
FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Mayor Glenn Opp of the Hancock County community of Rawson ordered a quarantine on all dogs in the town Saturday after two youngsters had been bitten by their pet collie.

Authorities said the collie died after biting 10 - year-old Ronnie Rettig and his five-year-old brother Roger. The boys were treated by a physician who ordered a rabies test on the dog. The collie had given birth to pups only recently.

Washington C.H. Legal Maneuver Is Awaited

YANKTON, S.D. (AP)—Sheriff Edward Sampson is awaiting the signing of extradition papers in Washington Court House, Ohio, before going there to return a 19-year-old escapee from the South Dakota State Prison.

Charles (Tony) Platt, who escaped June 13, waived extradition Friday in Washington Court House Municipal Court following his arrest while working for a carnival. In addition to the escape charge, Platt also is accused of armed robbery.



"WHOOPIE!"—Jennifer Mathews, 2, goes deeply western in Salinas, Calif., where residents are wearing such garb for a 10-day period as an "Old West" revival.

Show me a filter that really delivers taste and I'll eat my hat."

Hurricane Time

Weather bureau preparations, which include more reconnaissance satellites, are a reminder of the approach of another hurricane season.

The northeastern coast of the U. S. has been a frequent target of these destructive storms, but memory is less compelling than present reality. At the moment the drought-stricken area of which New York City is the center could regard the approach of a hurricane with something less than dismay.

Not a rowdy hurricane, to be sure, but a small, well-mannered one, staying far enough offshore so its winds couldn't wreck the coast again, but wet enough to help the reservoirs.

Alas, nature never consults man's convenience and the hurricane is a treacherous jade. Therefore, it is reassuring to learn that the Weather Bureau's National Hurricane Center at Miami they're all set, with a new bag of gadgets, for the onslaughts of Angela, Betsy, Cora, Donna and their turbulent sisters.

The satellites are the bureau's newest tools in the vital task of discovering the birth of storms and monitoring their development and movement. Along with reconnaissance planes, computers, radar and other scientific equipment, they have made possible an early warning system that triggers lifesaving community evacuation plans.

There isn't much man can do about hurricanes now, except get out of their way. But meteorologists are confident research will produce the means by which man can dissipate them or change their courses.

Viet Nam — a Vast Cemetery

By Hal Boyle

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Leaves from a war reporter's notebook:

From the air South Viet Nam looks in many places like a vast cemetery.

When you first fly over the countryside, you notice what at first look like bomb craters or old abandoned wells.

But no one could have dropped that many bombs or abandoned that many wells. What you are seeing are the tombs of some of Asia's unnumbered dead.

Tombs outnumber the rice paddies, where grow in vivid green the white grains that feed the country's living millions.

The tombs cluster by the hundreds in every patch of sandy outworn soil. In smaller numbers, they also stud the fertile rice paddies, as if the clamorous dead were draining the sustenance of the living.

Some of the tombs are new and handsome in gold and blue colors. But most are gray and old and lichen-encrusted, and the dead within them as forgotten as the faded, fallen leaves of a flame tree.

The poet Sara Teasdale wrote of "children's faces looking up, holding wonder like cup."

It is the faces of Vietnamese children that give most encouragement to Americans here. They are so bright-eyed, enthusiastic, and eager to accept change.

In the eyes of the middle-aged and elderly, you are depressed to see sometimes a veiled animosity or at best a dull passitvity. Often you have the feeling they don't really see you at all — they are either looking through you or around you, as if you were not there at all.

But the children and the youths see you. They are interested in Americans and this is cheering, even though you may have to face up to the fact that what they are looking for may more often be a cigarette than help to political freedom.

The hardest thing for Americans to get used to over here is Vietnamese money. It is by far the shabbiest paper currency on earth, particularly in small denominations.

The largest bill is the 500-piastre note. This is worth about $7, and they are invariably clean and crisp and neat.

The average Vietnamese workers, who earns from less than 60 up to 85 piastres a day, rarely gets his hands on one. The 100- and 200-piastre notes are usually in pretty good shape, too.

The five, 10- and 20-piastre notes — and particularly the fives — are the financial language of the poor. The five-piastre note is so dirty, frayed, unsanitary and pawed over that you feel you may be contracting a nameless disease every time you accept one in change.

The situation in South Viet Nam is bewildering in many ways to thousands of the American military men stationed here. The customs of the people are so different, the conduct of the war itself is so different, from anything they have known before.

But there is also a great determination on the part of most to see this thing through.

I think the best expression of both this bewilderment and determination that I have heard was made by Capt. James W. Haerer, 33, a fighter pilot from Tampa, Fla.

During a flight we made together on a supply plane to a mountain fort, Haerer said:

"You don't always know what you're fighting over here — but you know it has to be fought."

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — A flood of good news is failing to impress the stock market. Nor, for a change, is bad news setting off the usual reflex tremors. The market ended Friday July 16 just about where it was Friday July 9.

The good news would have impressed traders in other days. Rosy reports last week of rising corporate profits, heartening gains in industrial output and the total volume of goods and services, as well as in personal income, went apparently unnoticed.

The news out of Congress was of the same type — new laws that will increase government spending in the future and also the incomes of many citizens and the sales of some companies. There were also promises of still more government pep pills as the economy needs them.

At the same time, gloomy predictions of stepped up involvement of the United States in Viet Nam — with the memories of the Korean War still fresh — didn't cause the nervous reaction on the stock market that a like news item might have in the past.

Is the market blase, or surfeited, or just cautious?

One explanation of the doldrums in Wall Street could be that the good news was mostly about conditions that are past — if only as recently as a month ago. The market knew that the economy was still going ahead.

The market, along with the public, has lived so long with international troubles that flare up and die down only to be duplicated in new locations that even this kind of bad news may have lost some of its power to shock.

The list of corporations reporting increased profits, many setting record highs, grows each day.

But the stock market just took note and dawdled. Few expect it will go on being seemingly indifferent to good news or bad. But which type of news will predominate in the days and weeks ahead, or which will bear most weight, is today's guessing game on Wall Street.

An ancient Egyptian temple which has been dismantled and stored to save it from flood waters caused by the new Aswan Dam has been offered as a gift to the U. S. Let's grab it — what a relief it would be, contrasted to all those ice-cube-shaped, glass and steel monstrosities we call skyscrapers!

Since the temple is that of Hathor, the cow-headed goddess, somewhere out in the cattle country might be an ideal site.

Worry, an editorialist reminds us, is the price we pay for being intelligent human beings instead of animals. And the more intelligent we are, the longer we like to postpone the payment?

A BOOK TO chuckle over is Paul Steiner's "Useless Facts of History." Where else, for instance, could you pick up the information that when big, He-Man Papa Ernest Hemingway was a toddler, he and his sister, who was slightly more than a year older, were dressed as twins? And we'll bet you never knew before that President William Howard Taft once got stuck in a White House bathtub.

The member of a troupe of touring artists from behind the Iron Curtain was asked by a reporter how he had received his theatrical training. "Well," he said complacently, "I served my apprenticeship in the national repertory theatre, then I was promoted to small parts in the Moscow Art Theatre, and finally I hit stardom in spontaneous ink-throwing and window-breaking demonstrations outside U.S. embassies and libraries."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What is meant by a "telescope emergency operation" on the intestines of a small child?

Mrs. K.M., Florida

Dear Mrs. M: The telescope operation is only a simple way of describing the sudden onset of an intestinal condition.

The technical name is intussusception. When this intestinal disorder happens it is almost always in infants and young children. Fortunately, it is relatively rare as compared to the many other simpler causes of bellyache.

Intussusception of the bowel resembles a collapsing telescope. A small portion of the intestine then becomes trapped and causes severe pain and spasm.

Abdominal pain in a child must never be taken for granted if it lasts more than a reasonable time. For even an intussusception can be released, sometimes without surgery, if the condition is seen and recognized early.

Now a new technique is being used to liberate the telescoped intestine. Barium, usually taken to follow its passage through th intesinal tract by X-ray, can sometimes exert gentle but firm pressure and release the bowel with intussusception and allow it to return to normal.

What does the spleen do for the body? Can a person live a normal life if the spleen is removed?

Mr. H.K.F., Wisconsin

Dear Mr. F: It is a remarkable testimonial to the wonders of the body that, even after such a major operation, good health can continue without the spleen.

The healthy spleen serves many purposes. It destroys the red blood cells that may have exhausted their function and are no longer useful to the body.

The spleen plays an important role in the formation of antibodies that protect against infections. The spleen also can suddenly increase the amount of blood that is needed to circulate through the body. When an emergency arises the spleen seems to take over many important duties not usually assigned to it.

Despite the fact that the spleen is so vital to many of the complicated processes of the body, it can safely be removed without endangering life. The spleen is sometimes removed in severe cases of hemophilia, the inherited blood disease that causes bleeding after slight injury.

When the spleen is removed many of the lymph glands take over its function to keep the body in good health.

Quick Solution Feared

By John Chamberlain

One of the worst features of the bog-down of the war in South Vietnam is that it puts great pressure on Lyndon Johnson to get a fast settlement of the crisis in the Dominican Republic. But a quickie in Santo Domingo might be the very worst thing that could happen.

As of this moment of writing, the news is that the formation of a provisional Dominican government is in sight. The name of Hector Garcia Godoy, Foreign Minister in the old Juan Bosch government, is being mentioned by the OAS as possibly acceptable to both the rebel faction of Caamano and the Junta regime of General Tony Imbert. But the choice of a provisional president is only the veriest beginning of a temporary solution.

If the inauguration of an interim regime is to have any meaning acceptable either to the United States or to the genuinely anti - Castro forces throughout Latin America, certain preliminary conditions must be laid down. The prime stumbling block to a peaceful transition is the question of the guns that were distributed to the street mobs at the outset of the recent revolt. These are still in the hands of people who are amenable to Castroite manipulation. At one point in the disturbances at least four hundred vehicles were permitted to go through the lines from the rebel stronghold in Santo Domingo to the countrysde. Presumably the vehicles were chock - a - block with rifles and ammunition.

Both the Caamano rebels and the Imbert junta agree that the guns must be turned in. But Caamano wants them to be returned to a provisional government. The junta, on the other hand, wants to recover them before a new temporary regime is established. The difference could be vitally important, for a provisional government might boggle at showing the muscle necessary to collect the guns for fear of offending its supporters on the Left.

Another thing that must be settled is the status of the military. If the rebel officers are to be amnestied and returned to their old jobs, how trustworthy will they be? And who is to be the boss of the military anyway? This is the key job in almost any Latin American land.

The more starry-eyed among North American liberals would like to see a temporary regime in the Dominican Republic that would not be under the protection of the military. But this is a Utopianism that makes no connection with Latin American realities. Any Latin American government must rest on guns of a sort. If you get rid of the regular army by turning things over to a constabulary, as happened in Nicaragua and an older Santo Domingo, you are likely to get a Somoza or a Trujillo out of it. On the other hand, if things remain under the domination of an orhodox military establishment, little progress is made toward democracy.

The best compromise under the circumstances might be to follow the suggestion of that able student of Latin American affairs, Peter Nehemkis. Mr. Nehemkis, a Washington lawyer who has represented American corporations in South America, outlines a program under which the United States would back Latin military establishments, with the proviso that they use our money on grand - scale economic construction carried through by local army engineers corps. "Instead of supporting a Dominican military force that sits in its barracks eating high off the hog," says Mr. Nehemks, "why not put soldiers to work planting thousands of seedlings to restore the ravaged island forests?"

Traditionally, the Latin American military establishments have been the road and bridge builders of their lands. "The engineers' approach," says Mr. Nehemkis, "should be magnified to include hospital and school construction." Thos would be a return to the ideas of the original Latin liberators, Bolivar and San Martin, who saw the military as a force for freedom.

Some of these points should be firmly understood before carte blanche is given to any coalition group in Santo Domingo. Once the U. S. troops and the OAS have departed, it might be too late.

Hurricane Time

Weather bureau preparations, which include more reconnaissance satellites, are a reminder of the approach of another hurricane season.

The northeastern coast of the U. S. has been a frequent target of these destructive storms, but memory is less compelling than present reality. At the moment the drought-stricken area of which New York City is the center could regard the approach of a hurricane with something less than dismay.

Not a rowdy hurricane, to be sure, but a small, well-mannered one, staying far enough offshore so its winds couldn't wreck the coast again, but wet enough to help the reservoirs.

Alas, nature never consults man's convenience and the hurricane is a treacherous jade. Therefore, it is reassuring to learn that the Weather Bureau's National Hurricane Center at Miami they're all set, with a new bag of gadgets, for the onslaughts of Angela, Betsy, Cora, Donna and their turbulent sisters.

The satellites are the bureau's newest tools in the vital task of discovering the birth of storms and monitoring their development and movement. Along with reconnaissance planes, computers, radar and other scientific equipment, they have made possible an early warning system that triggers lifesaving community evacuation plans.

There isn't much man can do about hurricanes now, except get out of their way. But meteorologists are confident research will produce the means by which man can dissipate them or change their courses.

Viet Nam — a Vast Cemetery

By Hal Boyle

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Leaves from a war reporter's notebook:

From the air South Viet Nam looks in many places like a vast cemetery.

When you first fly over the countryside, you notice what at first look like bomb craters or old abandoned wells.

But no one could have dropped that many bombs or abandoned that many wells. What you are seeing are the tombs of some of Asia's unnumbered dead.

Tombs outnumber the rice paddies, where grow in vivid green the white grains that feed the country's living millions.

The tombs cluster by the hundreds in every patch of sandy outworn soil. In smaller numbers, they also stud the fertile rice paddies, as if the clamorous dead were draining the sustenance of the living.

Some of the tombs are new and handsome in gold and blue colors. But most are gray and old and lichen-encrusted, and the dead within them as forgotten as the faded, fallen leaves of a flame tree.

The poet Sara Teasdale wrote of "children's faces looking up, holding wonder like cup."

It is the faces of Vietnamese children that give most encouragement to Americans here. They are so bright-eyed, enthusiastic, and eager to accept change.

In the eyes of the middle-aged and elderly, you are depressed to see sometimes a veiled animosity or at best a dull passitvity. Often you have the feeling they don't really see you at all — they are either looking through you or around you, as if you were not there at all.

But the children and the youths see you. They are interested in Americans and this is cheering, even though you may have to face up to the fact that what they are looking for may more often be a cigarette than help to political freedom.

The hardest thing for Americans to get used to over here is Vietnamese money. It is by far the shabbiest paper currency on earth, particularly in small denominations.

The largest bill is the 500-piastre note. This is worth about $7, and they are invariably clean and crisp and neat.

The average Vietnamese workers, who earns from less than 60 up to 85 piastres a day, rarely gets his hands on one. The 100- and 200-piastre notes are usually in pretty good shape, too.

The five, 10- and 20-piastre notes — and particularly the fives — are the financial language of the poor. The five-piastre note is so dirty, frayed, unsanitary and pawed over that you feel you may be contracting a nameless disease every time you accept one in change.

The situation in South Viet Nam is bewildering in many ways to thousands of the American military men stationed here. The customs of the people are so different, the conduct of the war itself is so different, from anything they have known before.

But there is also a great determination on the part of most to see this thing through.

I think the best expression of both this bewilderment and determination that I have heard was made by Capt. James W. Haerer, 33, a fighter pilot from Tampa, Fla.

During a flight we made together on a supply plane to a mountain fort, Haerer said:

"You don't always know what you're fighting over here — but you know it has to be fought."

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — A flood of good news is failing to impress the stock market. Nor, for a change, is bad news setting off the usual reflex tremors. The market ended Friday July 16 just about where it was Friday July 9.

The good news would have impressed traders in other days. Rosy reports last week of rising corporate profits, heartening gains in industrial output and the total volume of goods and services, as well as in personal income, went apparently unnoticed.

The news out of Congress was of the same type — new laws that will increase government spending in the future and also the incomes of many citizens and the sales of some companies. There were also promises of still more government pep pills as the economy needs them.

At the same time, gloomy predictions of stepped up involvement of the United States in Viet Nam — with the memories of the Korean War still fresh — didn't cause the nervous reaction on the stock market that a like news item might have in the past.

Is the market blase, or surfeited, or just cautious?

One explanation of the doldrums in Wall Street could be that the good news was mostly about conditions that are past — if only as recently as a month ago. The market knew that the economy was still going ahead.

The market, along with the public, has lived so long with international troubles that flare up and die down only to be duplicated in new locations that even this kind of bad news may have lost some of its power to shock.

The list of corporations reporting increased profits, many setting record highs, grows each day.

But the stock market just took note and dawdled. Few expect it will go on being seemingly indifferent to good news or bad. But which type of news will predominate in the days and weeks ahead, or which will bear most weight, is today's guessing game on Wall Street.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What is meant by a "telescope emergency operation" on the intestines of a small child?

Mrs. K.M., Florida

Dear Mrs. M: The telescope operation is only a simple way of describing the sudden onset of an intestinal condition.

The technical name is intussusception. When this intestinal disorder happens it is almost always in infants and young children. Fortunately, it is relatively rare as compared to the many other simpler causes of bellyache.

Intussusception of the bowel resembles a collapsing telescope. A small portion of the intestine then becomes trapped and causes severe pain and spasm.

Now a new technique is being used to liberate the telescoped intestine. Barium, usually taken to follow its passage through th intesinal tract by X-ray, can sometimes exert gentle but firm pressure and release the bowel with intussusception and allow it to return to normal.

What does the spleen do for the body? Can a person live a normal life if the spleen is removed?

Mr. H.K.F., Wisconsin

Dear Mr. F: It is a remarkable testimonial to the wonders of the body that, even after such a major operation, good health can continue without the spleen.

The healthy spleen serves many purposes. It destroys the red blood cells that may have exhausted their function and are no longer useful to the body.

The spleen plays an important role in the formation of antibodies that protect against infections. The spleen also can suddenly increase the amount of blood that is needed to circulate through the body. When an emergency arises the spleen seems to take over many important duties not usually assigned to it.

Despite the fact that the spleen is so vital to many of the complicated processes of the body, it can safely be removed without endangering life. The spleen is sometimes removed in severe cases of hemophilia, the inherited blood disease that causes bleeding after slight injury.

When the spleen is removed many of the lymph glands take over its function to keep the body in good health.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — In all the political dreams of his life President Johnson probably never imagined anything like this: dominating the American scene with no real opposition in sight.

Johnson last year and President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936 won tremendous election victories and their Democrats, riding their coattails, got overwhelming control of Congress both times.

But Johnson has been shrewder than Roosevelt in the use he made of success and luck, for he had a little better luck than Roosevelt: the Republican party was split in the 1964 election and still is.

Now the divided Republicans are hardly any opposition to him. Even their criticisms are barely audible.

When they do take after him occasionally, as on his handling of the Vietnamese war, it's not because of American involvement but because they want him to bomb harder.

This is a lot different from President Harry S. Truman's experience with the Korean war when, shortly after the United States got into it in 1950, Republicans opened up on him and kept on going.

Since his 1964 election Johnson has carefully done nothing to bristle Democrats or Republicans. In fact, except for a minor thrust once in a while, Johnson has been almost benevolent toward Republicans.

He pulls the strings on this Congress, letting nothing interfere with his determination to shove through what he wants. The result: Congress is running up one of its most impressive records.

With Roosevelt it was different. After his great win in 1936, he wrecked any chance for a stunning performance with his Democratic-run Congress by opening war on the Supreme Court.

That highly conservative court had been throwing out one important New Deal program after another. And on Feb. 7, 1937, less than three weeks after the new Congress took over, Roosevelt opened fire.

He sent a bill to the Capitol proposing drastic court reform, the so-called "court-packing" plan. He instantly ran into fierce dissent in all directions, including Democrats.

That 1937 Congress — unlike this one where Johnson keeps the machinery oiled for speed and performance — got tangled up for months over Roosevelt's proposal and then, in July, rejected it.

While Roosevelt lost this battle, he didn't lose the war. The court, apparently rendered self-conscious by the attacks by Roosevelt and others, switched and began upholding New Deal measures.

In May 1937, three months after Roosevelt began the fight, the court upheld the constitutionality of Social Security, one of the most revolutionary and far-reaching of all the New Deal programs.

But in Congress the court brawl and other dissensions so hampered legislation that in August 1937 it quit without having passed any major measure. In short, Roosevelt didn't handle it well at all.

When Roosevelt won the 1936 election by a landslide it was against a progressive but vague Republican, Alfred M. Landon, whose party was left shattred but not split.

But, luckily for Johnson, after his triumph over the highly conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964, the Republicans were left both shattered and split. And Johnson has taken full advantage of that.

Sam Sheppards Uneasy About His Return to Jail

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Sam Sheppards, uneasy about his possible return to prison, spent most of their first wedding anniversary swimming at the hideaway of a friend.

"It helps keep your mind off things," the 42-year-old Sheppard said Sunday as he watched his wife, Ariane, climb from a motel owner's pool. They had gone there for privacy.

The 36-year-old West German divorcee, clad in a polka dot bikini, added:

"We're under such a strain waiting to see what will happen next."

Sheppard married Ariane in Chicago last July, two days after his court-ordered release from Ohio Penitentiary on $10,000 bond. They had corresponded and fallen in love while he was serving a life term for the murder of his first wife in 1954.

The former Bay Village osteopath expects to learn this week whether he may remain free while his famous murder case is appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

A federal appeals court in Cincinnati last Wednesday ruled, for the second time, that Sheppard's release was in error and ordered him returned to jail. His attorneys have asked the Cincinnati court for a stay of that order.

The Sheppards spent the day quietly. They exchanged anniversary gifts. She gave him a pair of platinum cuff links with a diamond in the center and her gifts from him included a miniature television set, an electric manicure set, and an orchid.

Harsha Speaks

Job Corps Preference Is Criticized

Congressman William H. Harsha of Ohio has demanded an investigation by the House Veterans Affairs Committee and called for a halt to the practice of admitting and treating Job Corps trainees, a segment of the poverty program, at Veterans Administration hospitals, in preference to veterans.

Harsha termed "incredible" the action of the Johnson administration in giving preference to members of the Job Corps at Veterans Administration hospitals over veterans of World Wars I and II and the Korean and Viet Nam conflicts.

The Ohio lawmaker stated: "There were approximately 15,000 veterans awaiting admission to VA hospitals and while these veterans are forced to wait for much needed and deserved hospitalization, Job Corpsmen are obtaining hospitalization at VA hospitals. Never before to my knowledge has a group been hospitalized categorically without regard to the origin of their disabilities, or the responsibility for treatment of such condition, and to give them preference over veterans who have served this nation with honor and distinction is reprehensible.

'Every day I receive mail from qualified veterans in dire need of hospitalization, who simply cannot get into these facilities, yet these Job Corpsmen, most of whom never served in the nation's armed forces are being admitted,' Harsha said.

"Every admission of a Job Corpsman takes a bed away from a veteran. This compounds the error recently made by the administration in closing certain VA hospitals in the nation,' the congressman added. "An investigation into this order is needed, and corrective action should be taken immediately by the Congress to halt this unconscionable practice."

Hamilton Bus Drivers Vote End to Strike

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Bus schedules resume today in this Butler County city of 75,000.

Thirty-four drivers and mechanics left their jobs June 12 in a contract dispute with Hamilton City Lines, Inc. They voted Saturday to accept a new two-year contract which includes a wage increase.

Antipoverty War Being Pressed In Spite of Unscheduled Sniping

NEW YORK (AP) — The war on poverty is unleashing some combat in the ranks.

Although the over-all drive is rolling ahead, with its operations fast expanding, clashes have erupted behind the main battle front in several communities.

Official and unofficial sectors often have locked in struggles for control. Partisan politics have added to the jousting.

A cross-country Associated Press check indicated, however, that the vast, diversified program generally has moved off to an industrious start in many cities, yielding a growing network of projects for the poor.

"This is a brand-new program and some mistakes are inevitable," says congressman John Brademas, D-Ind., a member of the House Committee on Education and Labor.

In Chicago, New York, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Omaha and Albany and Syracuse, N. Y., sharp controversies have rebroiled the program.

To varying degrees, tension also has arisen in Detroit, Baltimore, New Jersey, Alabama the San Francisco Bay area and elsewhere.

"This was a crash program and it certainly has crashed," said Youth Corps Director Howard Henson in Yavapai County, Ariz., after the County Board of Supervisors voted to terminate the program this fall.

Too complicated, they said, and time-consuming.

Mostly, however, the multiphased undertakings, offering federal poverty-fighting funds in municipalities across the nation, took on widening scope and form, despite the outbreaks of internal strife.

Often, these involved power struggles between the dominant political establishments and local community groups.

A complex dispute in Los Angeles over who would administer government funds blocked a planned summer project for underprivileged teen-agers.

The issue also flared around "community action" organizations, set up in poor neighborhoods under the program, to mobilize residents to press for better conditions.

Sometimes, this involved federally financed community groups making protests to City Hall, raising the ire of local officialdom.

Under the program, private as well as public agencies, or both in combination, are eligible to set up aided projects if they meet the requirements. The law requires "maximum feasible participation" of the poor themselves.

Among the various operations: "Job Corps," setting up camps and centers for work and job training; "neighborhood Youth Corps," providing part-time jobs to keep kids in school; "Head Start," bringing pre-school children up to standard to start school; "Vista," recruiting low-paid volunteers to serve in impoverished sections.

The federal government puts up 90 per cent of costs.

Besides the tug-of-wars over control, there also have been outcries that salaries paid were too high, and snarls over preliminary preparations and proposals which have delayed federal approval.

"We force every community to unite for action against poverty. Otherwise, they don't qualify for federal help," says Holmes Brown, public affairs director for the Office of Economic Opportunity. "Conflict is inevitable."

The "community action" units — intended to open channels for the poor to join in attacking their own problems — have caused the most ferment.

Assailing such an operation in Syracuse, N.Y., City Housing Director William L. McGarry called it "class struggle in the traditional Karl Marx style." And Republican Mayor William F. Walsh charged:

"It tries to pit the poor against everyone else in the community."

However, officials of Syracuse University, which sponsors that program with a $314,000 grant said the charges were false. Program Director Warren C. Haggstrom termed them "a smokescreen" to hide tenant grievances.

Ben Zimmerman, director of Syracuse's Crusade for Opportunity, the city's agency coordinating the bulk of its antipoverty work through a $3.5-million grant, says:

"The worst thing that could happen is for a fight to develop over who 'owns' the poor."

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — In all the political dreams of his life President Johnson probably never imagined anything like this: dominating the American scene with no real opposition in sight.

Johnson last year and President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936 won tremendous election victories and their Democrats, riding their coattails, got overwhelming control of Congress both times.

But Johnson has been shrewder than Roosevelt in the use he made of success and luck, for he had a little better luck than Roosevelt: the Republican party was split in the 1964 election and still is.

Now the divided Republicans are hardly any opposition to him. Even their criticisms are barely audible.

When they do take after him occasionally, as on his handling of the Vietnamese war, it's not because of American involvement but because they want him to bomb harder.

This is a lot different from President Harry S. Truman's experience with the Korean war when, shortly after the United States got into it in 1950, Republicans opened up on him and kept on going.

Since his 1964 election Johnson has carefully done nothing to bristle Democrats or Republicans. In fact, except for a minor thrust once in a while, Johnson has been almost benevolent toward Republicans.

He pulls the strings on this Congress, letting nothing interfere with his determination to shove through what he wants. The result: Congress is running up one of its most impressive records.

Wise Homeowner Keeps Check On Downspout

By ELINOR ROSS

If there was water in your cellar this year, better check the roof gutters and downspouts before you take off on your vacation. Damaged or inadequate gutters — worse yet, none at all—mean the entire roof area of your house is draining down onto the soil around the foundation.

This cascade not only flattens flower beds, providing a nice moist nesting ground for mosquitoes, but saturates the foundation backfill so that the water either passes through or undermines the walls.

So gutters and downspouts are a good investment.

As with any investment, of course, you'll want to think it through. For instance, if you do put up new gutters, they should be strong enough to carry the winter ice load, sturdy enough to lean a ladder against for periodic cleaning, and durable enough to last for years with minimum maintenance.

Galvanized steel is one material that really does the job. Such gutters and downspouts are readily available — building supply dealers, hardware stores and local sheet metal shops are usual sources of supply — and since galvanized steel is easy to solder, the man of the house can often do the installation job.

Here are a few helpful hints on the project, starting with the information that the roof area of your home determines the gutter and downspout size that will assure the best drainage.

For instance, there should be one square inch of downspout cross-section for every 100 square feet of roof area.

But if the builder's arithmetic stumps you, just remember an average-size home uses the five-inch, intermediate size gutter (it has a 12-inch girth) with a three-or four-inch downspout.

Downspouts should be placed at the end of the gutter or in the outside mitres. When the edge of the roof is flush with the side of the house, or should it have an eave with a fascia board finish, a box style gutter with a square downspout is a good match for the house's architecture.

Where the roof overhangs, but the eave is unfinished, a half-round gutter with round downspout is the most appropriate style.

Various hangers are available for these gutters: cleats, twisted braces, band braces or spikes and ferrules.

You should study each of these at your supplier's and get his help in determining which is best when installing gutters and downspouts on your house.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Too Much Togetherness

DEAR ABBY: Please save my sanity and print your opinion of the new fad parents are going along with to show their teen-agers that they trust them.

It seems that kids are talking their parents into inviting their "steadies" (ages 14 to 18) to go along on family weekend trips and summer vacations. My son is 17 and he is very put out with me because I refused to invite his 15-year-old girl friend to go with us on our summer vacation. We plan to drive to Eugene, Ore., from Denver, Col. He claims all his friends are doing it, and if we say no, his girl friend's parents will feel that we don't trust them. According to our son, her parents already gave the girl permission to accept. I still think I am right in firmly saying no. Please help me. We are being pressured from all sides.

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I would say no, too. It's unfair to generalize, but very few teen-agers can resist the inevitable temptations of excessive "togetherness." This is no reflection on their character, or home training. Human nature being what it is, we should not expect our physically mature, yet emotionally immature, children to withstand temptations that some adults aren't able to handle.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that when some people ask an organist to play at a wedding they think they are giving him a big honor and he should be glad to play for nothing? Playing an organ at a wedding is a "service" —just like the ceremony performed by the preacher. The preacher's education cost him something. And so did the suit he wears, which must be kept cleaned and pressed. Also the car he has to drive to get him there. The organist has the same kind of expenses. I hope you will consider this subject worth mentioning in your column, as it is very close to my heart. Thank you.

ALL PLAYED OUT

DEAR PLAYED: Since the bread basket is located in the region of the heart, your point is well made. Some folks must be reminded that because a service is performed within the holy atmosphere of the church, they should not assume that the performer is donating his time to the Lord's work.

DEAR ABBY: I find myself in an awkward position and do not know quite how to deal with it.

We had a lavish wedding for our daughter in a large hotel last month. Many of my husband's business acquaintances were there, including his attorney and his wife, his accountant and his wife, etc. Our daughter received gifts from everyone except one well-to-do couple who attended the wedding, dinner and reception. They are lovely people and we know they would never come to the wedding without having sent her a gift. Yet no gift was received from them. We feel they may have sent a gift and it went astray. Or perhaps they intend to send one and it hasn't arrived yet. How long should we wait before asking them what happened to their gift? Or shouldn't we mention it at all? Please advise. For your informaton, Abby, it was my HUSBAND who told me to write to you. How do you like that?

"EAST OF THE ROCKIES"

DEAR "EAST": Do not "mention" the absence of a gift from these people. If they haven't sent one yet, they might get the impression that you are inordinately concerned with who sent what.

DEAR ABBY: Read your advice to the woman whose husband was using live cats to train hunting dogs:

Not all communities have a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. You should have told her that in case she lived where there was no such society, she should notify:

(For Cynthia Lowry)

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—I suppose there are many reasons why "The Munsters" became a hit, but I think the principal reason is that we were successful in our attempt to depict a monster as funny instead of frightening, and good-natured as well as grotesque.

This concept — the idea of making a bumbling fall guy out of a monster — was the brainchild of Joe Connelly and Bob Mosher, producers and writers of "The Munsters."

Connelly and Mosher established the premise that, instead of the old adults-only horror approach, this would be off-beat comedy, something that would make the kids laugh rather than give them nightmares, and still have something to offer adults.

Then they left it largely to me to decide just how we would characterize our thinly disguised Frankenstein monster. This was no easy task, because we were dealing with an historic and readily identifiable movie figure, and we still had to give it our own distinctive touch.

To begin with, the original monster was a symbol of absolute terror who stood moviegoers' hair on ends decades ago. He was a real horror and no one —no one on this earth, at least — could identify with him.

Therefore we had to humanize our monster. The best way to do that was to make him fallible — more so than the average person. Hence there are times when Herman is the perfect caricature of the clumsy oaf, as likely to fall over a chair as to walk past it.

But beneath that horrendous exterior beats a second-hand heart of purest gold. Our Herman emerges as just about the nicest person you could imagine, a gentle, childlike character, a loving husband and father, and righteous to the point of being downright square.

This, I think, is the source of much of Herman's appeal. While his physical strength is monumental, he can be as petulant and sensitive as a small boy. But he loves and seeks love as naturally as the warmest of human beings — although there is some question of his own warmth: Herman's niece, Marilyn, once asked if her temperature of 98.6 wasn't normal, and Herman said, "Oh heavens, no. We Munsters never average over 50 degrees!"

Nearly everyone appears to like the Munsters, according to our fan mail, which has been heavy ever since the show went on the air.

Children write to express their devotion to big Herman and his pals, and parents write to thank us for taking the "boo" out of the bogeyman by showing the kids that even a monster really can be a nice guy at heart.

Woman Job Corps Center Said 'Wonderfulest Place'

CLEVELAND (AP)—Until a month ago Grace never had been out of West Virginia, never had seen a big city—or a freeway.

At 18 she hadn't been in school for four years. "Never did like it, and when I saw that F in Arithmetic (8th grade), I didn't want to go back."

Now Grace is studying arithmetic at Cleveland's $4 million Job Corps center for women, which she describes as "the wonderfulest place." And to her surprise, she finds she likes Arithmetic.

Grace stole a pleased glance at her corsage of pink carnations. It identified her as one of the girl guides who conducted about 500 visitors on an open house tour Sunday of the six story brick building which is now her home.

Like many of 290 other girls 16 through 21 who are enrolled at the Job Corps center—one of five in the nation—Grace admits she's homesick.

"I'd like to see my family, and I'd like to comb the hill back of our house on a nice day like today, and just look," she said. "You can see the town, and it's seven miles away."

But Grace vows she will stay on the Job Corps center and use the chance the war on poverty has given her to learn a job skill. She wants to be a beautician.

Mrs. Mary M. Chambers, executive director of the Cleveland Job Corps center and a former Biology professor at Alabama A&M in Normal, Ala., said the dropout rate is 13.5 per cent—about five per cent under the national average for such a program. Only three girls have been asked to resign.

While it's still too early to tell how well objectives will be met, officias at the center are happy with the way the program has begun. It started with arrival of 46 young women April 29, and enrollment now is 290. Another 35 are expected soon to bring the center to its capacity of 325.

The girls, averaging 19 years in age, come from 27 states.

Wise Homeowner Keeps Check On Downspout

By ELINOR ROSS

If there was water in your cellar this year, better check the roof gutters and downspouts before you take off on your vacation. Damaged or inadequate gutters — worse yet, none at all—mean the entire roof area of your house is draining down onto the soil around the foundation.

This cascade not only flattens flower beds, providing a nice moist nesting ground for mosquitoes, but saturates the foundation backfill so that the water either passes through or undermines the walls.

So gutters and downspouts are a good investment.

As with any investment, of course, you'll want to think it through. For instance, if you do put up new gutters, they should be strong enough to carry the winter ice load, sturdy enough to lean a ladder against for periodic cleaning, and durable enough to last for years with minimum maintenance.

Galvanized steel is one material that really does the job. Such gutters and downspouts are readily available — building supply dealers, hardware stores and local sheet metal shops are usual sources of supply — and since galvanized steel is easy to solder, the man of the house can often do the installation job.

Here are a few helpful hints on the project, starting with the information that the roof area of your home determines the gutter and downspout size that will assure the best drainage.

For instance, there should be one square inch of downspout cross-section for every 100 square feet of roof area.

But if the builder's arithmetic stumps you, just remember an average-size home uses the five-inch, intermediate size gutter (it has a 12-inch girth) with a three-or four-inch downspout.

Downspouts should be placed at the end of the gutter or in the outside mitres. When the edge of the roof is flush with the side of the house, or should it have an eave with a fascia board finish, a box style gutter with a square downspout is a good match for the house's architecture.

Where the roof overhangs, but the eave is unfinished, a half-round gutter with round downspout is the most appropriate style.

Various hangers are available for these gutters: cleats, twisted braces, band braces or spikes and ferrules.

You should study each of these at your supplier's and get his help in determining which is best when installing gutters and downspouts on your house.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Too Much Togetherness

DEAR ABBY: Please save my sanity and print your opinion of the new fad parents are going along with to show their teen-agers that they trust them.

It seems that kids are talking their parents into inviting their "steadies" (ages 14 to 18) to go along on family weekend trips and summer vacations. My son is 17 and he is very put out with me because I refused to invite his 15-year-old girl friend to go with us on our summer vacation. We plan to drive to Eugene, Ore., from Denver, Col. He claims all his friends are doing it, and if we say no, his girl friend's parents will feel that we don't trust them. According to our son, her parents already gave the girl permission to accept. I still think I am right in firmly saying no. Please help me. We are being pressured from all sides.

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I would say no, too. It's unfair to generalize, but very few teen-agers can resist the inevitable temptations of excessive "togetherness." This is no reflection on their character, or home training. Human nature being what it is, we should not expect our physically mature, yet emotionally immature, children to withstand temptations that some adults aren't able to handle.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that when some people ask an organist to play at a wedding they think they are giving him a big honor and he should be glad to play for nothing? Playing an organ at a wedding is a "service" —just like the ceremony performed by the preacher. The preacher's education cost him something. And so did the suit he wears, which must be kept cleaned and pressed. Also the car he has to drive to get him there. The organist has the same kind of expenses. I hope you will consider this subject worth mentioning in your column, as it is very close to my heart. Thank you.

ALL PLAYED OUT

DEAR PLAYED: Since the bread basket is located in the region of the heart, your point is well made. Some folks must be reminded that because a service is performed within the holy atmosphere of the church, they should not assume that the performer is donating his time to the Lord's work.

DEAR ABBY: I find myself in an awkward position and do not know quite how to deal with it.

We had a lavish wedding for our daughter in a large hotel last month. Many of my husband's business acquaintances were there, including his attorney and his wife, his accountant and his wife, etc. Our daughter received gifts from everyone except one well-to-do couple who attended the wedding, dinner and reception. They are lovely people and we know they would never come to the wedding without having sent her a gift. Yet no gift was received from them. We feel they may have sent a gift and it went astray. Or perhaps they intend to send one and it hasn't arrived yet. How long should we wait before asking them what happened to their gift? Or shouldn't we mention it at all? Please advise. For your informaton, Abby, it was my HUSBAND who told me to write to you. How do you like that?

"EAST OF THE ROCKIES"

DEAR "EAST": Do not "mention" the absence of a gift from these people. If they haven't sent one yet, they might get the impression that you are inordinately concerned with who sent what.

DEAR ABBY: Read your advice to the woman whose husband was using live cats to train hunting dogs:

Not all communities have a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. You should have told her that in case she lived where there was no such society, she should notify:

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Financially the European trotters fared well in their invasion of the United States, which ended with four of the five European representatives trailing Speedy Scot as the great American horse atoned for his defeat in the Roosevelt Raceway International with an easy victory in the $25,000 Challenge Cup at Roosevelt Raceway.

Speedy Scot, who broke stride and wound up a disappointing fifth as Sweden's Pluvier III won the $100,000 International July 10, took an early lead and never was headed in winning last Saturday's 1½ mile Challenge Cup in 3:07 3-5.

Italy's Steno, runner-up in the International, trailed by three lengths for second money with France's Quioco again third, Queronville LB, also of France sixth and Pluvier last after twice going off stride. The fourth and fifth spots went to American horses, Express Rodney and Su Mac Lad.

Pluvier's victory in the International made him the leading money winner of the two-race series. He earned $50,000. Steno two seconds were worth $31,250. Quioco earned $15,000 and Queronville $8,000. Only England's Hans B., who turned up lame last Wednesday after trailing far back in the International, failed to get any part of the money.

Last-Place Team Enjoys Splurge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who ever would have thought Buffalo, the last place team in the International League, could score 11 runs in one inning?

But that is just exactly what the Bisons did Sunday as they snapped a 13-game losing streak by defeating Syracuse 3-2 and 15-4, taking the second game on the strength of an 11-run eighth inning.

In other games, Columbus protected its 4½—game lead in the standings by splitting a doubleheader with second place Atlanta, the Crackers taking the first game 9-4 and Columbus the second 7-1; Jacksonville topped Toledo 6-4 and then fell to the Mudhens 1-0 and Toronto defeated Rochester 3-1 in the first game of a doubleheader and lost the nightcap 5-1.

Babe Ruth Stars Listed; Tourney Set

Babe Ruth League All Star selections have been announced by Paul Mayberry, vice president of the Circleville Youth Baseball Program in charge of Babe Ruth and Pony loops.

Mayberry noted the team does not include 16-year-old youths. Although permitted to play in the league for the first time this year, the older boys cannot compete in other tournaments.

The Babe Ruth All-Stars are entered in the Grove City tournament again this year. The double elimination event will be held Aug. 7, 8, 14 and 15.

Managers of the All Star team are Steve Compher and Dave Justus. Here is the roster:

Marsh Barnes, Frank Carter, Rick Congrove, Donald Cordle, Larry Dean, George Griebel, Mike Helwagen, Craig Lambert, Terry Martin, Robert Oesterle, Larry Stant, Jeff Steele, Steve Swank, Robert Walisa, Eddie Wells, Joe Winner, Tom Wright and Charles Zimmerman.

'65 Indians Lag Behind '54 Outfit

CLEVELAND (AP) — If the 1965 Cleveland Indians hope to match the record of the 1954 championship team, they'll have to do some fancy stepping.

On this date in 1954 the Indians were zipping along at .682 clip, with 60 victories and 28 losses, and by the end of the season they had zoomed to a record 111 victories, winding up eight games ahead of the second-place New York Yankees.

The 1965 Tribe was 51-35 Sunday after dropping a 4-1 decision to the Boston Red Sox.

But then the 1954 Indians did not do any better Sunday.

The old-timers went three innings against the 1954 All-Stars in a nostalagia-filled exhibition that preceded the regular game, and Cleveland's heroes of 1954 didn't get a hit.

Yogi Berra provided the only runs of the game, driving a three-run homer into the right field bull pen off Art Houtteman.

Bob Feller, Bob Lemon, Early Wynn, Mike Garcia, Ray Narleski, and Dave Hoskins also took turns on the mounds for the 1954 Indians.

Then the 1965 Indians took the field and couldn't get a hit in the right place — although they racked up seven hits to nine for the Red Sox.

Tips Received As Bat Boy Helps Rookie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Lefebvre might not have received a grade at the time, but he certainly deserves an A plus for the bat boy course he took six years ago.

Lefebvre, Los Angeles' rookie second baseman, put his education to good use Sunday as the Dodgers edged the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 11 inings and increased their National League lead to 1½ games over the Cincinnati Reds.

The 22-year-old switch hitter tied the game with a two-run single in the ninth inning, then lashed a double in the 11th, driving in the winning run.

The performance indicated that Lefebvre is emerging from a slump that saw him bat only .169 in the past month. His two hits Sunday brought his over-all average to .227, still far blow his early season showing.

But Lefebvre is carrying out the lesson he learned as visiting team batboy with the Dodgers when he was 16.

"The players talked baseball and worked with me on the field before games," he recalls. "The main thing I learned is that when a good ball player is down, he always bounces back.

"The idea is to stay with it, don't get discouraged and keep hustling. Things will start going for you."

In other NL games, Cincinnati stopped Pittsburgh 8-4 after losing 6-5, Milwaukee swept New York 5-1 and 5-4, Houston defeated San Francisco 5-2 and St. Louis trimmed Philadelphia 3-1.

In the American League, Los Angeles beat Minnesota before bowing 5-4, Kansas City knocked off Chicago 7-5 after losing 3-2 in 10 innings, Boston defeated Cleveland 4-1, Baltimore trimmed Detroit 4-1 and Washington blanked New York 3-0.

The Dodgers trailed the Cubs 3-1 going into the ninth, but they loaded the bases and Lefebvre smacked a two-out single for two runs. Then in the 11th, Bob Hendley walked Wes Parker, and Lefebvre followed with a double to right-center field.

Littler Cops Canadian Purse

TORONTO (AP) — Gene Littler is $20,000 richer today because he made a change in his putting style three weeks ago.

Littler withstood a challenge by Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, over the final nine holes of the 72-hole Canadian Open Golf Championship Saturday to win the title and the $20,000 purse.

Littler, who plays out of Las Vegas, Nev., feels he never could have done it if he hadn't made a slight alteration in his putting at the St. Paul Open three weeks ago.

Littler finished one stroke ahead of Nicklaus by making a four-foot pressure putt on the 18th hole after the two were tied for second place going into the last day.

Circleville Stars Drop Twin Bill

The Circleville All - Stars dropped both ends of a double-header Saturday to Teays Valley. TV won the first, 11-3, and the second, 4-1.

Power hitting stopped the Stars in the first scramble. Teays Valley blasted three extra base hits while Circleville could only manage one.

Bumgarner led the hitting attack for TV as he powdered a triple and a double. Roese added a two-sacker for the out-of-towners.

Mike Webb tagged the only extra base blow for the locals, a double. Rickey Blankenship, Mike Fuller, Harold Smith and Mark Lutz socked bingles for the Stars.

* * *

BROWN hurled for the Valley squad and went the distance. He walked four, fanned two and scattered the Stars' five bingles.

Richard Radcliff started for the All-Stars. In his three-frame tenure he walked six, struck out one, allowed three hits and four runs.

Tom Wickerham relieved and was charged with the loss. He issued three bases on balls, put down two on strikes and was touched for four hits and six runs. Mark Lutz hurled the last inning, fanning one and allowing a hit and a run.

Good field play also helped the Teays Valley team as they pulled off two double plays and were charged with two errors. The Stars had three bobbles.

In the second battle, Teays Valley scored four times in the first frame off Marion Long and Rod Kassler. Long pitched to the first three men and gave up two hits, while absorbing the loss.

Kassler turned in a fine relief job and finished the game. He fanned four and scattered five hits. Neither man gave up a base on balls on the mound.

Van Gregg went the mound route for the winners and walked two, fanned 13 and gave up only two hits.

* * *

GREGG also proved his batting ability as he blasted a homer for Teays Valley. Bumgarner and Hesler added two baggers.

Mike Webb landed the only Circleville extra baser, a double. Mike Fuller managed the only other hit for the locals.

The Stars' lone run came in the final inning as Fuller scored.

Reliefers Get Prod by Reds Pilot

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Dick Sisler feels it's time for his relief pitchers to get down to business if the Cincinnati Reds are to stay in the National League pennant race.

"We got to start getting more help from the bullpen," Sisler said after the Reds split a doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday. "They (the relief pitchers) should have held Pittsburgh in the first game. They just got to help us out.

"We should not have blown a lead like that in the eighth inning."

The Pirates scored four times that inning to edge the Reds, 6-5. Cincinnati won the second game, 8-4, but dropped 1½ games behind Los Angeles which defeated Chicago, 4-3, in extra innings.

The Reds started the season with what some writers called the best pitching staff in the league. The pitchers—especially the bullpen—have not quite lived up to this advance notice, and things have been getting worse.

Saturday, Philadelphia got 22 hits off five Reds pitchers, and there were plenty of hits in Sunday's doubleheader.

BERNIE PARRISH

Parrish Back With Browns '11'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Defensive halfback Bernie Parrish, who retired from professional football with the Cleveland Browns last Thursday, asked today to return to active duty and went back on the roster.

Parrish, 29, was fined $100 a day, a total of $400, for training time missed.

"I had some things to get straight in my own mind, and found I missed football a lot more than I thought I did," Parrish said.

Parrish signed two months ago for the 1965 season, and caught the trainining camp by surprise last week when he announced he no longer had the desire to continue playing.

Ward's Market Latest Victim of Oilers in 19-4 Tilt

Circleville Oil defeated Wards Market, 19-4, Saturday afternoon in a Little Leagur Minor game rescheduled because of rain.

The Oilmen, unbeaten in league play, tallied three runs in the first inning. They scored in every frame after that in posting their seventh consecutive win.

William Cline was the winning pitcher. He held the Marketmen to five hits, issued 10 walks and fanned eight during his six inning mound performance.

Doug Spangler started for the losers. He walked four and fanned seven. Billy Halstenberg relieved Spangler and walked four and fanned four. The Oilmen cracked 17 hits off the two Market hurlers.

* * *

DEAN FAUSNAUGH was the leading hitter. In five trips for the Oilers, he blasted a homerun, a double and a pair of singles. He scored every time he reached base.

Dick Sark's bat exploded for two triples for the winners, while Gary Wertman and Cline also belted three base hits.

The longest hit for the losers was a double by Steve Shaw.

Pluvier's victory in the International made him the leading money winner of the two-race series. He earned $50,000. Steno two seconds were worth $31,250. Quioco earned $15,000 and Queronville $8,000. The Dodgers trailed the Cubs 3-1 going into the ninth, but they loaded the bases and Lefebvre smacked a two-out single for two runs. Then in the 11th, Bob Hendley walked Wes Parker, and Lefebvre followed with a double to right-center field.

Littler Cops Canadian Purse

TORONTO (AP) — Gene Littler is $20,000 richer today because he made a change in his putting style three weeks ago.

Littler withstood a challenge by Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, over the final nine holes of the 72-hole Canadian Open Golf Championship Saturday to win the title and the $20,000 purse.

Littler, who plays out of Las Vegas, Nev., feels he never could have done it if he hadn't made a slight alteration in his putting at the St. Paul Open three weeks ago.

Littler finished one stroke ahead of Nicklaus by making a four-foot pressure putt on the 18th hole after the two were tied for second place going into the last day.

Circleville Stars Drop Twin Bill

The Circleville All - Stars dropped both ends of a doubleheader Saturday to Teays Valley. TV won the first, 11-3, and the second, 4-1.

Power hitting stopped the Stars in the first scramble. Teays Valley blasted three extra base hits while Circleville could only manage one.

Bumgarner led the hitting attack for TV as he powdered a triple and a double. Roese added a two-sacker for the out-of-towners.

Mike Webb tagged the only extra base blow for the locals, a double. Rickey Blankenship, Mike Fuller, Harold Smith and Mark Lutz socked bingles for the Stars.

* * *

BROWN hurled for the Valley squad and went the distance. He walked four, fanned two and scattered the Stars' five bingles.

Richard Radcliff started for the All-Stars. In his three-frame tenure he walked six, struck out one, allowed three hits and four runs.

Tom Wickerham relieved and was charged with the loss. He issued three bases on balls, put down two on strikes and was touched for four hits and six runs. Mark Lutz hurled the last inning, fanning one and allowing a hit and a run.

Good field play also helped the Teays Valley team as they pulled off two double plays and were charged with two errors. The Stars had three bobbles.

In the second battle, Teays Valley scored four times in the first frame off Marion Long and Rod Kassler. Long pitched to the first three men and gave up two hits, while absorbing the loss.

Kassler turned in a fine relief job and finished the game. He fanned four and scattered five hits. Neither man gave up a base on balls on the mound.

Van Gregg went the mound route for the winners and walked two, fanned 13 and gave up only two hits.

* * *

GREGG also proved his batting ability as he blasted a homer for Teays Valley. Bumgarner and Hesler added two baggers.

Mike Webb landed the only Circleville extra baser, a double. Mike Fuller managed the only other hit for the locals.

The Stars' lone run came in the final inning as Fuller scored.

Reliefers Get Prod by Reds Pilot

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Dick Sisler feels it's time for his relief pitchers to get down to business if the Cincinnati Reds are to stay in the National League pennant race.

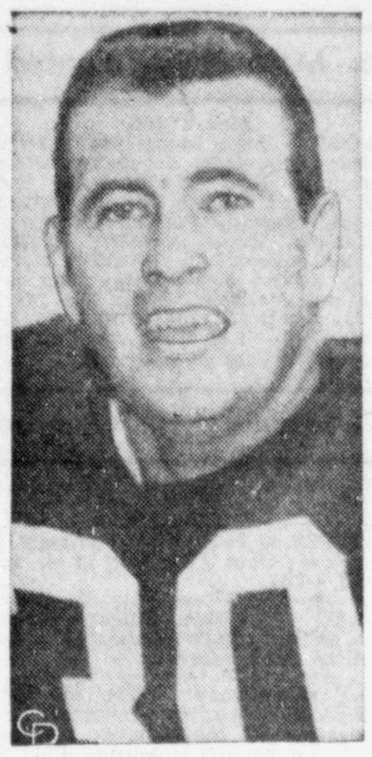
"We got to start getting more help from the bullpen," Sisler said after the Reds split a doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday. "They (the relief pitchers) should have held Pittsburgh in the first game. They just got to help us out.

"We should not have blown a lead like that in the eighth inning."

The Pirates scored four times that inning to edge the Reds, 6-5. Cincinnati won the second game, 8-4, but dropped 1½ games behind Los Angeles which defeated Chicago, 4-3, in extra innings.

The Reds started the season with what some writers called the best pitching staff in the league. The pitchers—especially the bullpen—have not quite lived up to this advance notice, and things have been getting worse.

Saturday, Philadelphia got 22 hits off five Reds pitchers, and there were plenty of hits in Sunday's doubleheader.



BERNIE PARRISH

Parrish Back With Browns '11'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Defensive halfback Bernie Parrish, who retired from professional football with the Cleveland Browns last Thursday, asked today to return to active duty and went back on the roster.

Parrish, 29, was fined $100 a day, a total of $400, for training time missed.

"I had some things to get straight in my own mind, and found I missed football a lot more than I thought I did," Parrish said.

Parrish signed two months ago for the 1965 season, and caught the trainining camp by surprise last week when he announced he no longer had the desire to continue playing.

Circleville Oil Unbeaten in Little League

Ward's Market Latest Victim of Oilers in 19-4 Tilt

Circleville Oil defeated Wards Market, 19-4, Saturday afternoon in a Little Leagur Minor game rescheduled because of rain.

The Oilmen, unbeaten in league play, tallied three runs in the first inning. They scored in every frame after that in posting their seventh consecutive win.

William Cline was the winning pitcher. He held the Marketmen to five hits, issued 10 walks and fanned eight during his six inning mound performance.

Doug Spangler started for the losers. He walked four and fanned seven. Billy Halstenberg relieved Spangler and walked four and fanned four. The Oilmen cracked 17 hits off the two Market hurlers.

* * *

DEAN FAUSNAUGH was the leading hitter. In five trips for the Oilers, he blasted a homerun, a double and a pair of singles. He scored every time he reached base.

Dick Sark's bat exploded for two triples for the winners, while Gary Wertman and Cline also belted three base hits.

The longest hit for the losers was a double by Steve Shaw.

Amateur Wins on Wave of Birdies

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—"I don't feel like an amateur champion. It probably will hit me two days from now."

That was easy - going Dick Flockenzier's reaction Sunday after he rode a wave of birdies to the 59th Ohio Amateur Golf Championship.

The 39 - year - old Mansfield manufacturer's agent scored a 2-up victory over stubborn Bill Bosshard of Akron in a stiring 36-hole duel over the Westbrook Country Club's 6,414-yard, par-72 layout.

Flockenzier did it the hard way, coming from four holes down with only 14 to play to register his satisfying triumph.

"I felt I could catch him. I was never worried. Really, I didn't feel a bit of pressure," the hometown favorite confided.

Bosshard, a spunky 28-year-old car wash owner who has been playing golf only eight years, was philosophical in defeat.

"It's a long way to walk only to lose," he said. "I played as well as I could but he was better. I was putting well, but the ball just wouldn't drop for me."

And putting provided the difference, too. Flockenzier, who never before had advanced past the second round in six Ohio Amateur tries, putted brilliantly to overcome an erratic driver.

Trailing by four holes, Flockenzier didn't allow his foe to win another hole, while he scored on six, five coming as a result of razor-sharp putting that produced birdies.

The scrambling Flockenzier nailed down his title on the 152-year 35th hole when he placed his six iron tee shot two feet from the cup. He calmly sank his putt to go 1-up and then sealed the verdict with a superb 22-footer on the finale hole.

Along the title path, Flockenzier disposed of Don Nist of Canton, 2 and 1; 1960 king Dan Carmichael of Columbus, 3 and 2; Ed Sneed Jr., of Columbus, 5 and 3; Dr. Harry Duccilli of Cincinnati, 1-up in 21 holes and veteran Steve Pipoly of Youngstown, 8 and 7, in Saturday's 36-hole semifinal.

Bosshard turned in a major upset when he ousted two-time winner Tony Blom of Cincinnati, 2-up, in the other semifinal tiff.

SHE MADE A HIT—Elizabeth Jane Carroll, this year's "Miss Minnesota Universe," gets in some baseball practice at her home in Minneapolis. She is wearing a Boston Red Sox cap given to her by Tony Conigliaro, her frequent date.

The longest current scoring streak in the National Football League belongs to Tommy Davis, placekicker for the San Francisco 49ers. He has scored in 50 straight games.

His Final Flight Takes His Life

Air Guardsman Dies in Crash

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP) — "It looked as though someone had gone at the hillside with a bulldozer," said a man on the site of the plane crash that took the life of a pilot Sunday on his last scheduled flight as a member of the Ohio Air National Guard.

"It (the plane) hit the ground about 50 feet before you get to the crest of a small hill, and made a hole nine feet long and four feet deep . . . There were bits of maps and paper at the point of impact and the rest of the wreckage was sprayed out in a funnel-shaped pattern."

The pilot was identified as Capt. Paul O. Leppo, 34, of South Fort Mictchell, Ky.

The Ohio Air National Guard set up a board of inquiry to determine the cause of the crash that left wreckage of the F84 jet fighter scattered over several acres of cornfield and pasture near Samantha in northern Highland County.

Capt. Leppo, a Lake Central Airlines pilot, was assigned to the 162nd Tactical Fighter Squadron of the 178th Tactical Fighter Group at Springfield. A family friend said the flight was to have been the captain's last mission—he planned to resign after this weekend to devote more time to his wife, Ann, and their three small children.

Witnesses on the ground said Capt. Leppo and another jet fighter engaged in a mock dog fight before the crash. An Air National Guard officer said the dead pilot had been on a routine mission on the hot, clear summer day.

"The plane dived under another plane and exploded," said one woman. "There was another, bigger explosion when it hit the ground."

Capt. Leppo's body, still in the ejection seat, was found several hundred feet from the shattered pieces of his plane's fuselage.

Mrs. Stonerock was honored for securing the most new members in the unit category for the membership year of 1965. She was a guest of Mrs. Mary McElroy, outgoing president of the Ohio Legion Auxiliary during a banquet Friday night.

Presenting the award to Mrs. Stonerock was Mrs. Nancy Smith, Department membership chairman and newly elected president of the State Auxiliary.

Ohio Lt. Gov. John Brown was the banquet speaker. The session was attended by approximately 700 legion and auxiliary members.

Several local unit delegates were present for the award ceremony, including Hall - Adkins commander Ermil Stonerock. Others were Mrs. Murl Campbell, outgoing unit president; Mrs. Mary Hedges, past 7th District president; Mrs. Cecilia Hoffman, unit president; and Mrs. Walter Pickel Jr., past unit secretary.

RECOGNITION — Mrs. Stenobe Stonerock (center) is honored with a gift here for her efforts in securing the most new members in the local American Legion Auxiliary unit for 1965. Drought Area Farmers Due To Get Boost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Farmers in 23 Ohio counties today were preparing to seek federal relief after having had their areas declared disaster regions because of drought.

The counties are: Athens, Belmont, Carroll, Champaign, Clermont, Coshocton, Delaware, Guernsey, Hardin, Harrison, Highland, Hocking, Holmes, Jefferson, Knox, Logan, Madison, Morrow, Noble, Ross, Tuscarawas, Union and Vinton.

The amount of land involved in the various drought relief areas depends upon that needed by the farmer-applicant.

If he has certain land set aside for participation in the soil bank program, for instance, and needs hay from the field or for other uses to combat drought conditions, he specifies his plans in his application for relief. His own county agriculture conservation officials must approve his plans.

The Agriculture Department in Washington said that farmers may apply to county extension offices for permission to graze livestock or harvest hay on land which has been retired from crop production under farm programs.

Emergency Federal Housing Administration loans or allocation of government-owned grain are other possible relief steps, but the Agriculture Department says these are not available at this time to the designated Ohio counties.

Radio, Tires Taken

The theft of a radio from the backseat of a car and two tires from the back of a truck was reported yesterday to city police by Jim Bensonhaver, 195 Harrison Ave. He valued the radio at $10 and the tires at $50.

$1 Billion GI Pay Boost Expected To Win Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was expected to override administration objections and approve today a $1-billion military pay increase bill — double what President Johnson proposed.

The raise would average 10.7 per cent with the biggest share going to enlisted men—including recruits and draftees—and junior officers. Its aim is to attract and keep skilled men in uniform.

There was no organized opposition in sight as the measure carried endorsements from both sides of the aisle. It appeared that the administration's only chance to cut down the measure would be in the Senate, which will take up the bill after the House votes its approval.

The measure was whipped out by the House Armed Services Committee on a 33-1 vote, approved by the Rules Committee and endorsed by the House Republican Policy Committee — despite Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's campaign for the administration bill.

The administration proposed a 4.8 per cent average increase totaling $448 million a year. McNamara said this would be fair to the servicemen and fair "to our taxpayers."

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee didn't agree. The South Carolina Democrat called the administration bill "disgracefully inadequate."

The differences between Rivers and McNamara go more deeply than pay. Since he became chairman in January, Rivers has clashed with McNamara over the authority of Congress to oversee military programs under its constitutional powers to "raise and support armies."

This power struggle was mirrored in the committee's rejection of the administration's proposal that it be given authority to make annual adjustments in military pay subject only to a congressional veto.

This, stormed Rivers, would be a vote of no confidence in Congress. As a compromise, the committee bill calls for the administration to submit an annual miiltary pay review to Congress, with a complete revision of the pay structure to be submitted every four years, beginning in January 1967.

In recent years, forest-based industries have accounted for one of every 20 jobs in the U.S. labor force and for $1 of every $20 of national income.

Laurelville Man Injured in Crash

Theodore Huston, 22 Laurelville was admitted to University Hospital, Columbus, late Saturday following a one-car accident 12 miles southeast of Circleville on the Tarlton Adelphi Road.

Huston, who told Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff he fell asleep at the wheel of his car, suffered a fracture of the right hip and numerous lacerations and abrasions.

Science Starts

Laboratory scientists have an almost magical way of eliminating markings they don't believe are real. They can wipe out traces of noise, make light spots dark and dark spots light to conform to their concept of what the pictures ought to show.

Mariner 4's camera is linked to a device which converts the light values of the picture it takes into numbers. Zero is white, 63 is black. The numbers in between represent various shades of gray.

The spacecraft radio transmits these numbers to earth where they are recorded on tape. The tape is fed into a device which converts the numbers back into dots of various shades of gray, 200 dots to a line and 200 lines to a picture.

If the dots don't make sense in some areas — if they show a marking where none ought to be — the picture can be made logical by feeding the tape into a computer.

Experts tell the computer to print out another tape with the numbers, or dots, made lighter or darker to conform with the dots around it.

Mariner 4 will have time to send over again at least twice before it streaks beyond radio range into a wide orbit around the sun.

Grease Causes Arm, Leg Burns

Orland Inbody, 54, of 128 Logan St., burned both legs and his left forearm on hot grease while cooking fish. He and four other persons received emergency care in Berger Hospital during the weekend and were released.

Deborah Lines, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lines, Route 2, Laurelville, fell off a skateboard and injured her right arm.

Stephen Moore, 2½, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Moore, 395 Avon Drive, fell out of a chair at home and suffered a contusion to his right arm.

Jeffrey Mouser, 9, Columbus, lacerated fingers of his right hand in a fan.

James Cedar, 17, of 402 N. Scioto St., was struck with a spoon and suffered a laceration to his right arm.

Drought Area Farmers Due To Get Boost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Farmers in 23 Ohio counties today were preparing to seek federal relief after having had their areas declared disaster regions because of drought.

The counties are: Athens, Belmont, Carroll, Champaign, Clermont, Coshocton, Delaware, Guernsey, Hardin, Harrison, Highland, Hocking, Holmes, Jefferson, Knox, Logan, Madison, Morrow, Noble, Ross, Tuscarawas, Union and Vinton.

The amount of land involved in the various drought relief areas depends upon that needed by the farmer-applicant.

If he has certain land set aside for participation in the soil bank program, for instance, and needs hay from the field or for other uses to combat drought conditions, he specifies his plans in his application for relief. His own county agriculture conservation officials must approve his plans.

The Agriculture Department in Washington said that farmers may apply to county extension offices for permission to graze livestock or harvest hay on land which has been retired from crop production under farm programs.

Emergency Federal Housing Administration loans or allocation of government-owned grain are other possible relief steps, but the Agriculture Department says these are not available at this time to the designated Ohio counties.

Radio, Tires Taken

$1 Billion GI Pay Boost Expected To Win Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was expected to override administration objections and approve today a $1-billion military pay increase bill — double what President Johnson proposed.

The raise would average 10.7 per cent with the biggest share going to enlisted men—including recruits and draftees—and junior officers. Its aim is to attract and keep skilled men in uniform.

There was no organized opposition in sight as the measure carried endorsements from both sides of the aisle. It appeared that the administration's only chance to cut down the measure would be in the Senate, which will take up the bill after the House votes its approval.

The measure was whipped out by the House Armed Services Committee on a 33-1 vote, approved by the Rules Committee and endorsed by the House Republican Policy Committee — despite Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's campaign for the administration bill.

The administration proposed a 4.8 per cent average increase totaling $448 million a year. McNamara said this would be fair to the servicemen and fair "to our taxpayers."

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House Armed Services Committee didn't agree. The South Carolina Democrat called the administration bill "disgracefully inadequate."

The differences between Rivers and McNamara go more deeply than pay. Since he became chairman in January, Rivers has clashed with McNamara over the authority of Congress to oversee military programs under its constitutional powers to "raise and support armies."

This power struggle was mirrored in the committee's rejection of the administration's proposal that it be given authority to make annual adjustments in military pay subject only to a congressional veto.

This, stormed Rivers, would be a vote of no confidence in Congress. As a compromise, the committee bill calls for the administration to submit an annual miltary pay review to Congress, with a complete revision of the pay structure to be submitted every four years, beginning in January 1967.

Science Starts

Laboratory scientists have an almost magical way of eliminating markings they don't believe are real. They can wipe out traces of noise, make light spots dark and dark spots light to conform to their concept of what the pictures ought to show.

Mariner 4's camera is linked to a device which converts the light values of the picture it takes into numbers. Zero is white, 63 is black. The numbers in between represent various shades of gray.

The spacecraft radio transmits these numbers to earth where they are recorded on tape. The tape is fed into a device which converts the numbers back into dots of various shades of gray, 200 dots to a line and 200 lines to a picture.

If the dots don't make sense in some areas — if they show a marking where none ought to be — the picture can be made logical by feeding the tape into a computer.

Experts tell the computer to print out another tape with the numbers, or dots, made lighter or darker to conform with the dots around it.

Mariner 4 will have time to send over again at least twice before it streaks beyond radio range into a wide orbit around the sun.
